BEN, AMY GET ACROSS

City-to-City Chef's Target

Endurance king Ben Laughren, who with Amy Hiland completed the short-cut route across the Strait of Juan de Fuca Saturday, declared today that he intends to keep trying the swim until he completes it from city to city.

Marilyn's Diary

Stella Jinks
This was a real whirl of a weekend.

On Saturday morning, as you know, we all went down to the City Hall, with a motorcycle escort, for Cliff's civic reception.

And then our Cliff just amazed us all by making a speech that sounded as if he had been speaking in city halls all his life.

After that, Gus took me out and I swam for half an hour and believe me, after Cliff's fine swim, I certainly am putting everything into my practice sessions.

When we got back to the hotel we heard the news about Ben Laughren and Amy Hiland and their swims. Gus and Cliff and I sent them both a wire saying "Congratulations on a fine swim. We know how tough it is."

On Saturday night, Cliff Lumsden, swimmer and city hall orator, unleashed another of his talents on us. You may not know this, but Cliff is an hilarious entertainer. As a storyteller he is a riot but as a mimic and imitator, he is even better. Cliff did imitations of many famous people and had us in stitches with a routine in which he interviewed Bert Thomas.

We showed our appreciation for Cliff's talents by chasing him outside and turning a water hose on him. But Cliff got a bucket of water, climbed upon the roof and poured it down on us. He thought he was pretty smart until he found he couldn't get down. He stayed up there for a long time while we pretended we had phoned the fire department to bring their ladder. But after considerable worrying, sweating and climbing along the eaves, Cliff finally got down under his own power.

On Sunday, Cliff took over as coach for my one-hour practice swim and invented a completely new set of signals. He waved his hand and wiggled his arms and did everything to confuse me.

One time he said, "Marilyn, would you mind swinging a bit to the left? I don't want you to hit that shark."

Great sense of humor, that boy. But if you think you can't put up with him, it doesn't take long to see that you can't do without him. Cliff and Joan left for home last night and already we miss them.

4 B.C. Fatalities During Weekend

VANCOUVER (CP)—Four persons died in weekend accidents in B.C. Across Canada the toll was 40, mostly in car smashups.

The B.C. fatalities:
W. J. Barclay, 31, drowned while swimming off Vancouver's crowded Kitsilano Beach.

W. R. Goudie, 67, of Glenmore, drowned in an Okanagan Valley lake near Kelowna.

Alex Wornichuk of Armstrong, killed in a car crash near Vernon.

F. J. Warne, 55, burned to death in his shack at Riverdale, near Trail.

"Yes, I swam the Strait," Ben said today, "but I won't be satisfied until I go all the way, either from Port Angeles right to Victoria or vice versa."

"I would even like to do it both ways and intend to keep trying right up to the end of September. I am going in the Jaycee mass swim and if I make any money out of that one, I hope to go back east and try the Lake Superior swim."

"I understand there is a $20,000 prize for that one. I'm flat broke and I could sure use that money."

Laughren added: "We didn't intend to do it that way Saturday. We wanted to come all the way to Victoria. But that tide situation crossed us up again and after I had been in the water seven hours, Stan Page, my navigator, told me we had 19 miles to go to Victoria. We headed for the closest land we could find and it still took me three hours to get through that last half-mile. That's how bad the tide was."

Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash said today said Ben would be presented with a plaque and scroll at municipal jubilee celebrations September 1.

"We certainly must do something as this area couldn't buy the publicity it has been receiving for any amount of money."

Ben is a Saanich resident, as is distance swimmer Bill Muir who following recent great attempts on the strait has received "some hundreds of dollars" from citizens who've contributed to Muir in a fund administered by Mr. Ash.

NOT EXCITED

Ben's faithful trainer, Strait veteran Ove Witt, said: "We were glad Benny finally got across but we didn't feel really excited about it. We know that Benny can go the whole way and we know he will do it."

Swept far to the west by a powerful ebb tide, both swimmers had to abandon their attempts to swim to Victoria.

Ben walked ashore at Church Point, west of Race Rocks, 11 miles from Victoria and 26.7 miles from his starting point.

Witt said, "We could have paddled around there for another 20 hours and still not have had a chance to get to Victoria."

Amy Hiland swam into shore at the William Head quarantine station, about seven miles from Victoria and 15 miles from her starting point.

HAD COME CLOSER

Amy twice before had come closer to Victoria in swims from Ediz Hook. Trying for Victoria on her first attempt, she made it to within 1½ miles and on her second attempt, she was taken from the water 1½ miles from Albert Head, five miles from Victoria.

Amy's trainer, Dr. William Slater, decided to land her at William Head Saturday because of the brutal beating she had absorbed while swimming directly through the swirls and eddies of Race Rocks.

Both swimmers started from Ediz Hook within minutes of each other. Amy at 4:45 a.m. and Ben 15 minutes later. It was Amy's third try from the Hook and Ben's first.

Both had their sights aimed at Victoria, but soon after they cleared the American shore they were gripped in the clutch of a powerful ebb tide that was soon heading them in the direction of the open sea.

One observer following the swims said, "I thought it was going to be another Swiftsure race."

Trailing Amy, Laughren got the worst of the tide and soon was carried far south of Sooke Inlet.

PORT ANGELES TO CHURCH POINT

Two of the most persistent of the many Strait challengers, Ben Laughren, and his trainer, Ove Witt, smile happily after landing at Church Point Saturday. The landing came 10 hours after they set off from Ediz Hook on their 10th attempt to complete a Strait crossing. Both still are determined to make a city-to-city swim. Ben would like to make two-way try.

PORT ANGELES TO WILLIAM HEAD

Residents of Port Angeles turned out in force Saturday night to greet swimmer Amy Hiland and present her with a bouquet of red roses. Amy, aided by

WIRE BRIEFS NIXON SHOO-IN WITH IKE

Sets Swim Record

TORONTO (CP)—Bill Slater, 16-year-old Vancouver high school student, today broke his own Canadian record for the senior men's 1,650-yard free style event at the Canadian swimming championships and Olympic trials. He covered the distance in 19 minutes, 24.4 seconds.

Sooner Than Expected

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. John F. Tattrie, 26, gave birth to a baby boy Sunday, four hours after she was injured in an auto collision while being driven to hospital. Both drivers also were hurt, neither critically. Mrs. Tattrie and her son were reported doing well.

Fruitmen Ask Aid

KELOWNA (CP)—The British Columbia Fruit Growers' Association today made a formal request to Agriculture Minister Kiernan that the Distress Assistance Act be applied to the tree fruit industry.

Flying Pay Hoisted

OTTAWA (CP)—Flying pay for members of Canada's armed services, both active and reserve, has been more than doubled, retroactive to July 1, Defence Minister Campney announced today. The new aircrew flying pay has been put on a graduated scale beginning at $75 a month and running as high as $150. The old rate was $30 a month.

Hollywood Stars Put GOP Show on the Road

From UP and AP
SAN FRANCISCO—Hollywood helped open the Republican convention at 11 a.m. today with more entertainment acts than speeches because, actor George Murphy explained, politics are getting more like show business.

Today's convention calendar looked more like a program for Hollywood's Oscar night than for a big political meeting. More entertainers than ever before in political history performed 20 numbers before the "footlights" of the cavernous Cow Palace.

Irene Dunne is doing the president's prayer. Murphy rounded up 11 Republican stars to perform for free from Ethel Merman singing "Great Day" to Dennis Morgan crooning "One Alone." Wendell Corey was recruited as master of ceremonies, with Jane Powell to sing the national anthem.

President Eisenhower was reliably reported today to be ready to give Vice-President Nixon a clear track for re-nomination.

In the face of a campaign by Harold E. Stassen to dump Nixon, the vice-president's associates said they had received assurances that Eisenhower would not submit any list of men he regards as qualified and acceptable to him as a running mate.

Stassen pinned his drive to replace Nixon on a hope that Eisenhower would let it be known before the convention's balloting session Wednesday that some others would be equally suitable as a vice-presidential nominee.

The delegates are here to do what is expected of them—nominate Eisenhower and Nixon. Any other result would be a political miracle.

Why are th' Lib'rals promisin' a lower th' sales tax when Mister Bennett's lowered it a' five per cent from three already.

Guess th' next thing fer th' Strait swimmers is a shuttle service.

One thing about political conventions, y' hev t' observe 'em as well as attend 'em.

SOMMERS CASE

Tory Chief To Tell All Tonight

VANCOUVER (CP)—Progressive Conservative leader Deane Finlayson will disclose at a public meeting tonight the charges levelled last December against former lands and forests minister, R. E. Sommers.

The threatened disclosure—to be made at a party rally in North Vancouver—follows closely a warning issued by Alfred Bull, Q.C. Mr. Sommers' lawyer, that Mr. Finlayson will be cited for contempt of court if he discusses details of the Sommers-Sturdy slander case during the current election campaign.

The issue came before the supreme court last February when Mr. Sommers sued Vancouver lawyer David Sturdy for slander and resigned his cabinet post. The case is still before the court.

Mr. Sturdy's charges were first presented to Attorney-General Robert Bonner last December.

Later an attempt was made by Mr. Sturdy to lay the "body of evidence" before Chief Justice Sloan's royal commission on forestry. The chief justice ruled his commission did not give him authority to hear the statements.

After Mr. Sommers resigned his post in a dramatic sitting of the legislature, Attorney-General Bonner ordered the RCMP to make an inquiry. Insp. W. J. Butler, now retired, filed a report which the AG has said will not be made public.

Reduction to 4% Highlights Party's 12-Point Program

VANCOUVER (CP)—The B.C. Liberal Association today released an election platform calling for immediate reduction of the provincial sales tax to 4 per cent, establishment of a department of youth affairs and appointment of an independent highway commission.

The platform, set forth in a statement issued by Liberal leader Arthur Laing, contains 12 points on which the party will campaign in the Sept. 19 provincial election.

Besides taxes, highways and youth, the platform deals with natural resources and development; industrial relations and workmen's compensation; social welfare; agriculture; municipal and Indian affairs; provincial finances and the democratic function of the opposition.

Mr. Laing's statement said consumer taxes are moving steadily higher and now provide 54 per cent of the annual revenue.

"The Social Credit government raised the provincial sales tax to 5 per cent, making us the highest taxed province in Canada in this field. The revenues received from this increase of 66½ per cent over the former rate were taken directly into the general revenues of the province."

"With the growth of population and continuing prosperity throughout Canada, Liberals believe that adequate provincial sales tax revenues can be obtained from a sales tax of 4 per cent without disturbing the present arrangements for B.C. Hospital Insurance."

'Waste' in Road Work 'Incalculable'

Mr. Laing claimed that B.C.'s total budget is five times higher than it was in 1945, yet the province spends a smaller percentage of its budget on roads than most other Canadian provinces.

"The present spotty, disconnected program creates the impression of construction everywhere, but has resulted in incalculable waste of men, machines and material."

On day rates, the statement says, roads are being built for which no engineering plans have been made, surveys have not been completed and "quantities have not been calculated."

Liberals, it continues, "will return to a highway program of competent engineering, planned development and competitive contracts for all capital construction. We will appoint an independent highway commission to study needs, fix priorities and set highway completion dates."

The platform calls for the formation of a department of youth affairs under a responsible minister "to aid our youth in education, sports, the arts and all their endeavors and to combat the ever-growing problem of juvenile delinquency."

Other points contained in the platform:

1. "Guard against dissipation of our natural resources—forest, fish, power."

2. "Establish a permanent development board to do for British Columbia what the Gordon commission is now doing for Canada."

3. "Re-establish a full-time board of industrial relations; extend workmen's compensation to include all commercial fishermen; provide arbitration rights for the civil service of British Columbia; refer all labor matters to the standing House committee on labor."

4. "Honor our responsibility to the aged, sick and poor."

5. "Meet disaster to agriculture with direct action."

6. "Restore the authority of municipal councils and school boards."

7. "Revitalize the provincial advisory committee on Indian affairs."

8. "Re-establish true and conventional methods in stating the debt and financial position of the province."

9. "Respect the democratic function of the opposition, as criticism is the symbol of a free society."

West Cool To Nehru's Suez Plan

LONDON (AP)—The United States today laid the Western proposal for international operation of the Suez Canal before the 22-power Suez conference. A few minutes earlier India had proposed a compromise giving Egypt the major role in operating the waterway.

The delegates did not get around to discussing either in the formal meeting.

State secretary Dulles submitted the West's proposals for a Suez Canal board, with Egypt as one member, "for operating and developing the canal and enlarging it so as to increase the volume of traffic in the interests of world trade and of Egypt."

(According to the Cairo press, the Western proposals already have been rejected by Egypt's special envoy here, Wing Cmdr. Ali Sabry.)

India's V. K. Krishna Menon suggested Egyptian ownership and operation, and the formation of a group embracing both the user interests and the Egyptian "operating" corporation.

Though there was no discussion of the two plans, Menon obviously failed to sway western diplomats with his proffered compromise.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O GOD, by whose mighty labors the world is created, we pray today for the people who toil. May they strive to produce things useful and excellent, such as enrich the common life. Grant that all who benefit by the workers' labor may support them in their struggle for justice, equality, and abundant life; in the name of Jesus. Amen.

Plunges 30 Feet From Ferris Wheel

(The Canadian Press)
VANCOUVER — A young American carnival worker plunged more than 30 feet from a ferris wheel Sunday and is in hospital in only fair condition.

Wyatt Kersh, 20, of Portland, was helping set up the world's largest ferris wheel at Pacific National Exhibition grounds. He was attaching a string of lights to the big wheel when a short circuit occurred and he touched a hot wire. The shock knocked him off the wheel to the pavement below.

BIG RANCH PLANNED

FORT ST. JOHN — A 10,000-acre cattle ranch will be developed 40 miles southwest of here on lands leased from the Department of Indian Affairs by a group of investors from Grimshaw, Alta.

The lease is for the surface of the land only, as oil companies have taken over oil and mineral rights.

SOCRED ATTACKS PUC

PRINCE GEORGE — Social Credit MP for the Cariboo, B.C., R. Leboe, says the B.C. Public Utilities Commission has "failed in its duties towards the people of Prince George."

"Shocked" at the treatment the commission has proposed for the city's gas consumers, Mr. Leboe promised to ask the board of transport commissioners to issue an order requiring WestCoast Transmission Co. to sell natural gas to the Prince George Gas Co. Ltd.

He termed the PUC decision that consumers here must subsidize Inland Natural Gas Co. "completely illogical."

JONES WINS REEVESHIP

MISSION — W. E. Jones, an alderman for the last six years, was elected reeve of Mission at a by-election Saturday. He defeated Don Thompson by 14 votes, polling a total of 511.

The by-election was called after the recent death of Reeve William Matheson.

MEDICINE DEAN ARRIVES

VANCOUVER — University of B.C.'s new dean of medicine, Dr. John W. Patterson of Cleveland, arrived here during the weekend to take up his new duties.

COVENT GARDEN SIGNS VICKERS FOR LEAD ROLES

TORONTO (CP) — Tenor Jon Vickers of Regina and Prince Albert, Sask., has signed an 18-month leading role contract with the Covent Garden Opera Company of London. It was announced Saturday.

Mr. Vickers, who began singing in a northern Hudson's Bay Company post-choir, is to be heard in tenor roles in Puccini's "Tosca," Berlioz's "Les Troyens," Bizet's "Carmen," Walton's "Troilus and Cressida" and Wagner's "Die Walkure."

One of his most notable recent performances was as the male chorus in Benjamin Britten's opera, "The Rape of Lucretia," at this year's Shakespearean festival in Stratford, Ont.

B.C. ELECTIONS ROUND-UP

Party Leaders Reject Moore's Call for Unity

(The Canadian Press)
VANCOUVER — Provincial Liberal and CCF leaders have rejected a suggestion, made at a Saanich nominating meeting Friday night, that the two parties unite to defeat Social Credit in the Sept. 19 provincial election.

Liberal leader Arthur Laing said the suggestion, by William Moore, former CCF member of the Legislature for Comox, is "utterly impractical."

Mr. Laing said "formal arrangements, in the open or behind closed doors, is out of the question."

A statement issued by CCF provincial secretary Harold Thayer said the CCF "has never, and will not contemplate an alliance with any other political party."

The CCF statement said the party will nominate a full slate of candidates.

"CCF continues to be the only alternative," the statement continued. "We invite support of the democratic program of the CCF as the only alternative to the Tory-Social Credit coalition."

Mr. Moore told the Saanich meeting that there are ridings in which the CCF cannot hope to win a seat, and that in these constituencies CCF party members should support the most progressive candidate who seems certain of winning. He said later he was not recommending a coalition of Liberals and CCF.

VANCOUVER — B.C. politicians will campaign on television for the first time in a provincial general election.

The four major parties met with CBC television officials on Friday and agreed on time and number of telecasts for the Sept. 19 election.

The CCF became the first party to announce an appearance when provincial secretary Harold Thayer said Saturday he will make a telecast Thursday at 7:30 p.m. to outline the party platform.

KIMBERLEY — Leo T. Nimsick was nominated unanimously Saturday night as CCF standard-bearer for Cranbrook riding. Mr. Nimsick has represented the riding in the legislature for seven years.

NELSON — E. W. White, manager of a bottling works in Nelson and former major in the Canadian army, was nominated Saturday night as Liberal candidate in Nelson-Creston riding. The seat was held in the last legislature by Provincial Secretary W. D. Black.

Who Is Smearing Whom?

HAVING OFFENDED THE PUBLIC'S sense of propriety by calling a snap election, Premier Bennett insults the public's intelligence by saying that the election date has nothing to do with the Sommers case. The long arm of coincidence cannot be stretched that far.

The Premier's indignant denial reminds one of the famous story of the Duke of Wellington who was greeted on the street by a stranger with the remark: "You are Mr. John Smith, I believe." To which the Duke replied: "If you believe that you will believe anything."

Those who believe that the election was timed to precede the trial of the Sommers case are merely "smearing" the Government, according to Mr. Bennett. In other words, it is a smear to say that when the Government's integrity is questioned and the honesty of a former cabinet minister is challenged in the courts, the Government should vindicate itself before it asks another mandate from the people. It is a smear to say that the evidence should be heard before a verdict is reached.

Mr. Bennett is always complaining, rather pathetically, of smears, yet no politician in Canada is so fond of smearing his opponents. His first election speech was little more than a smear on his predecessors who, he said, had reduced British Columbia to "chaos" until he rescued it. The Premier cries "smear" simply because he cannot possibly justify his election and knows it.

His latest excuse is especially pathetic. The Vancouver Sun, he says, had complained that election rumors were causing instability. "When it became clear that an election campaign was already under way I set an early date, partly to remedy that political instability of which The Sun complained."

What instability? According to Mr. Bennett British Columbia has never been so stable, prosperous and well-managed as it is today under the best of all possible governments. And if an election campaign was already under way, who started it? The Premier started it last spring by a series of political tours, by a continuous flood of propaganda and then by nominating Social Credit candidates all over the province.

He undoubtedly had decided then on an early election and the newspapers were accurate in forecasting it. Having made up his own mind long ago, he now tries to insinuate that his critics forced him to dissolve the Legislature so suddenly that many voters will be disenfranchised.

Finally he complains that The Sun has been publishing uncomplimentary photographs of him, as part of a deliberate smear. He seems to prefer those flattering over-size portraits of himself on the billboards which urge the public to eat more British Columbia farm products and appear, by another odd coincidence, just before an election when they will please the farmers and keep Mr. Bennett's face before the city voters—at the cost of the taxpayers.

The Premier complains but he does not answer the public's perfectly legitimate question—why has an election been called now though the Legislature's term had two years to run, no party was obstructing the Government's policies and the voters had not heard the evidence in the Sommers case? The answer is obvious. Mr. Bennett is making election hay while the sun shines. He is taking no chances of a change in climate later on.

Two More Victories in the Strait

AS SO OFTEN HAPPENS IN THE world of sport, more Strait records fell last Saturday while the cheers still echoed for a previous triumph.

Mrs. Amy Hiland, who swam brilliantly and courageously on two previous attempts, managed to stroke her way from Port Angeles to William Head despite the swirling currents and dangerous tides of Race Rocks.

Ben Laughren, proving on his tenth attempt that persistence pays, achieved a well-earned victory by his landing west of Race Rocks. He is the first local man to make the crossing and thus wins a special niche in the Juan de Fuca hall of fame.

Although the swims fell short of the Port Angeles-Victoria course which has been the usual aim of Strait contestants, this will in no way detract from the achievements. Mrs. Hiland is the first woman to have made the now-famous crossing of Juan de Fuca, from south to north. It was a well deserved victory reflecting great credit on her stamina and spirit, and through it she has earned international tribute.

Even the masterly swimming of Cliff Lumsdon, of course, cannot obscure the fact that Bert Thomas was the first to cross, and holds the record in time. There are still targets for ambitious swimmers. Who will be next?

The Freeze in Turkey

TURKEY OFFERS A CLASSIC lesson in the simpler laws of economics. It has tried to expand its economy too fast, invested more than it could afford in various new industries, some of them obviously unsound, and now finds itself grappling with a dangerous inflation. So the Turkish Government has done what many governments in the Western world have often been urged to do—it has clapped on arbitrary price controls. Naturally, they will not work.

The profits of manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers and importers are all neatly fixed in the Government's complicated decrees. A price tag has been attached to every item of goods from shishkebab to automobiles.

The first effect of this experiment has been a rush for goods of all sorts. Attracted by lower prices, the consumer is stocking up, doubtless anticipating higher costs later on. Thus the supply, already short, is further curtailed and inevitably stimulates inflation.

The Government has been compelled to alter many of its regulations after finding that they discouraged production, the best cure for inflation. As it may realize by now, it is dealing only with symptoms, not causes. The symptoms are high prices; the causes are too much money chasing too few goods in the familiar cycle.

Price controls can work, though always indifferently, in time of war when a nation is willing to accept drastic taxes, rationing and the strict control of wages. Without state management of everything prices can never be directly controlled. But they can be controlled indirectly by a government strong enough to control the money supply and keep it in balance with the available goods. That precisely is what the Canadian Government is trying to do by policies bound to be unpleasant for many people and perhaps politically damaging.

In this rich country our problem is nothing like that of Turkey where a primitive economy cannot be modernized overnight. Nevertheless, a parallel can be discerned.

Like Turkey we have been trying to do too much, too fast, and this year at least we cannot quite reach our target. The attempt to reach it in terms of capital investment beyond the limits of our manpower and materials has produced shortages in some areas of the economy and the shortages have produced a rise in prices. They are fortunately small yet, but they are a warning. And Turkey's current experience tells us, if we didn't know already, that price controls would not help us.

A Promising Proposal

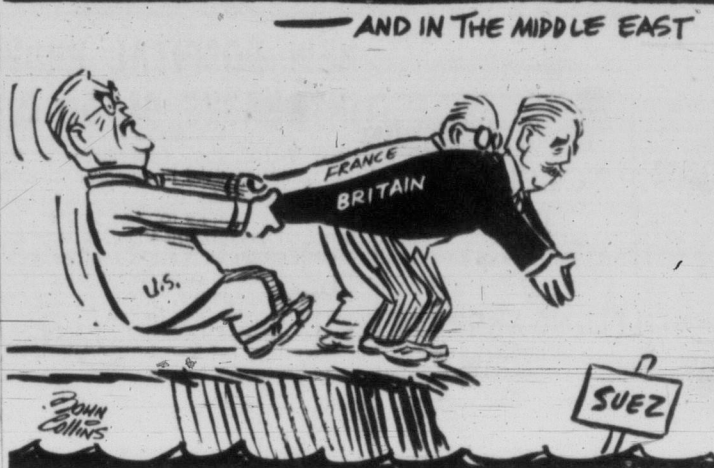

THE CONTINUAL NORTHWARD growth of this community, the creation of street after street of new houses, and the ever-increasing population make the question of parks one of the most important to confront Greater Victoria officials.

For this reason, the proposal to acquire the 140-acre McRae estate in the Queensbury-Mapplewood area for use as a public park should receive the close study of the Capital Region Planning Board, the Capital Improvement District Commission and other bodies.

Greater Victoria is fortunate to have so extensive an area still available so close to the city centre. The day will come, and soon, when such acreage will be impossible to obtain, no matter what the park requirements. Park planning must be done on a long-range basis, and this particular project could well be considered for inclusion in the capital improvement program.

Mr. Dulles on the Brink IN THE FAR EAST

YOU'LL HAVE A FIT By B. A. TOBIN

High Style: Low Dudgeon

ALTHOUGH the sun still has a good summer warmth I notice there's a spurge of writing about fall fashions. The fellows who look after the inner man by looking after the outer woman are trying to outdo each other with something sensational. At last report they were getting so radical they were copying the styles of five years ago. Female fashions, and female conversations, are something like a long-playing record. When you get to the end at last there's nothing to do but start all over again.

It's pretty hard to find any reason for fashions. Nobody's trying to make clothes better. They just make them different. Of course, there may be a sensible basic cause for some styles. When Queen Elizabeth I decreed 20-inch waists for the mob of women who hung around her court she probably had one eye on the mounting grocery bills.

But she was an exception. The general idea seems to be to change the styles just enough each year so last year's dresses can't be made over. This year apparently both necklines and hemlines are plunging. The higher the style the lower the line—unless it's your line of credit.

I hate to say it, but Victoria women don't dress with outstanding attractiveness. A man can safely walk the streets of the city with a boil on his neck—he won't often find himself turning his head for a second look.

Overflowing

A lot of women's clothes seem too big for them. Some girls achieve that popular look of having been poured into their dress, but for others it appears that somebody forgot to turn off the tap.

Some costumes are wrong for the occasion; they're as out of character as a flower girl with a dirty face. Others seem to have been sold by a sharp bargainer; the buyer has been taken in instead of the waist.

Perhaps that's why so many women have a yen to wear men's clothes. Today it's got to the point where to be unconventional is conventional. Even Mr. Sheplov, the Russian Foreign Minister, has remembered he's a revolutionary. He's turned up in London in a tuxedo, complete with bow tie, and he's said to be the first of his tribe to wear this disguise.

Of course, it's Mr. Sheplov who's revolutionary, not the clothes. Men's clothes don't change from year to year, and not even much from decade to decade.

Many a young fellow spends a little more for his tux than he should, figuring that it will be handy to be buried in fifty years later. What woman can look forward to that? Why even three months after a girl has bought an evening dress she wouldn't be seen dead in it.

One advantage of this stability is that there is less snobbery about men's clothes. The lapels change their width a little, there may be one button more or less on the suit coat, but nobody can sneer at you for being only that much different.

You may have last year's lapels, but your buttons are right in style. (Nobody will know it's because the bottom one fell off last week.) And only the fact that your blue serge has no trouser cuffs betrays the secret that it dates back to the cloth shortage during the last war.

Much as I dislike too much ado about clothes, I must admit it's a pleasant event to go into a store for a new suit. I can't boast of having a tailor who is "mine." Perhaps because of a certain time lag, they seem to die off or go out of business between suits.

Fringe Benefits

But it's nice to listen to the man tell you about weaves and colors, cuts and linings. If I spend a little time on a choice of style, it's not because I'm being finicky. The salesman may think I'm worried about its up-to-dateness. Actually I'm trying to gauge if this cut will still be acceptable four, five, six years from now.

But it's also something of an ordeal to go into one of these emporiums. Surrounded by sleek, fashionable garments on all sides, you remember your worn elbow, your frayed lapel, your shiny seat. You wish you had come in for a new suit while you still had a new suit, but it's too late now.

You feel a sense of gratitude that the impeccably dressed gentleman in charge will even speak to you, much less get interested in your needs. You try to imply, without actually saying it, that the suit you're wearing, well, heh, heh, is just an old thing you put on for wheeling sand or cleaning out the septic tank, and you haven't had time to change.

Does he suspect the truth, that if it weren't for the overflow from your wife's closet, your own clothes closet would stand empty after you leave for work each morning? Can such a fashion plate as he realize the simplicity of life when the only sartorial choice lies between My Good Pants and My Other Pants?

Such musings are rudely halted when he quotes you the price. "I remember when they were $27," you mutter, thinking about four suits back. But you shut up, pay up and pack up.

For a week or so the gleaming new suit will be put away carefully each night, with great attention to the hangers of the crease. But all too soon it is thrown on a chair just as his shabby predecessor was. Only then can you really be said to have taken possession.

As Our Readers See It

Short Memory

Just to remind the Honorable W. A. C. Bennett. It was he who castigated the Federal Liberal government for calling an election in the fall because of the fact that many voters would not be in their respective ridings. Apparently the Premier has a very short memory as in many other ways.

The difference between the two is, that, the federal government gave the people time to get their names on the voters' list. Premier Bennett should be the last person to boast about believing in the rights of the individual and democracy.

A VOTER WHO MADE SURE

Strange Urgency

Labor, with characteristic courage, has pointed to the gravity of the method by which Premier Bennett has suddenly, with strange urgency, precipitated a "snap" provincial election. It is the responsibility of workers and all in danger of being disfranchised, to claim their right to vote! Mr. Bennett's action indicates that he fears the "waiting" moment—no action by the Socialists has so blatantly proclaimed their tactics.

During the last few years lessons have been taught and learned. Let us look twice before voting—and perhaps voting away our province!

The Good News

There is one significant comment that deserves careful thought—in the letter headed "Jehovah's Witnesses" in your issue of Aug. 14—"Let it be understood... this fantastic religion which is nothing less than a travesty of the Christian faith."

Why? Not because it disagrees with the Bible as a whole but because it collides with the Nicene creed!

Are the worshippers at Christ Church Cathedral ever told by the preachers the words of Christ Jesus that "Every public instructor when taught respecting the Kingdom of the heavens, is like a man, a householder, who brings out of his treasure store things new and old." (Matt. xiii.52.)

Are they warned if they do that "you will be objects of hatred, because of my name." (Luke xxi.1.)

All Jehovah's Witnesses are warned what to expect if they preach the good news of the Kingdom, which Christ Jesus spoke of over 110 times in the four gospels.

Why an Election?

It would indeed be only right for all us voters in B.C. to ask the Premier why he called an election so soon. There was to my mind no need for at least another year, as far as I have seen and read. In a great many instances the Social Credit have done good work, in some, they have only recently made mistakes, and serious ones.

Many people among even our hard working classes, don't bother to kick about these, as long as the shoe does not pinch, as I predict it will, when it is too late for them to do so.

There are two conclusions I have come to. One is that the Social Credit are trying to get rid of some of their own present members of their party, if they can, by an election sweep. The other, it is likely they are trying to get rid of some of the most dangerous members in the opposition parties.

The people of B.C. should not have been called on this soon to bear the expense of an election. The Social Credit Party, some have done good work, but some bad mistakes have been made which the B.C. people should have had time to question the Premier, and all members on, before voting at another election.

Scottish Schools

I read with interest your article on "Private Schools Favored by Canadians in Britain" by Mr. Ken Metherall in your issue of Aug. 15. If you insert "England" instead of Britain, the article is probably fair comment, but for Scotland it is not at all correct.

I am writing this purely to save other Canadians who may be visiting my country any worries about the education of their children.

As a retired head master of a Scottish Primary School with a roll of 800 I feel I am competent to speak on this subject. The state of affairs referred to in your article does not apply to Scotland, and my personal experience of private school pupils enrolling in public school has been, that they have usually to be placed a stage or two behind the similar age group in the public school.

Please do not be confused by "public" and "private" schools. In England public schools are private or fee-paying; in Scotland public schools are state non-fee-paying schools.

It is also found that their behaviour, manners, etiquette, sports, etc. are beyond reproach; they have all the frills at the expense of real solid education as we understand it in Scotland.

The average Primary School in Scotland is quite good and my advice as a good Scotsman to your Canadian soldier is, keep your "siller" in your pocket and send your child to a good elementary school. He will receive free education, free opticians, free dentistry, free annual tests and free books, and when he has reached the Senior Secondary he will be awarded without competition free bursaries and then to the University with further bursaries.

The poorest peasant's son in Scotland today can attain the highest honors in our universities without any cost to the parents.

Odd, Even Grim, Strategy

BY JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP, From Washington

THE impression left by the Democratic convention is curious, to say the least. You might almost say that the Democratic party's second nomination of Adlai E. Stevenson is like a man marrying his mistress, long after the flames of passion have flickered and gone out, because he is used to her and badly needs someone to darn his socks.

In this respect, the contrast between 1952 and 1956 has been very marked indeed. Four years ago, there really was passion. The Democratic party's intellectual and idealistic elements were shooting flames of love from their eyes, ears and noses. But plenty of the harder-boiled types were also stirred by the hopeful image of the successful, reforming, literate and thoughtful Governor of Illinois.

The political professionals were on fire, too, no doubt for the highly practical reason that they thought they had found another likely winner, but on fire all the same.

One Dry Eye

Harry S. Truman himself had repeatedly begged Stevenson to stand for the Democratic nomination. Three quarters of the big northern party bosses were on the telephone day and night, pleading with Jake Arvey to plead with his men. When Stevenson did yield there was not a dry eye in the house, except—perhaps for Averell Harriman's.

This time, it could hardly have been more different. Stevenson himself was not going through any agony in the garden, and praying, as he said he did in 1952, "let this cup pass." He was working like a nailer to get the nomination, in the approved tough, practical way.

Meanwhile, however, there were few signs of the old passion anywhere. Most of the idealists and intellectuals certainly were for Stevenson.

One of the mildly depressing aspects of this rally in Chicago was the way the high minds and the deep thinkers turned peevish towards Harry Truman and Averell Harriman, because their man was being obstructed by the former President and New York Governor.

Quirks and Foibles

But although they were backing Stevenson and wanted him to win, the idealists and intellectuals were more likely to be heard discussing their candidate's quirks and foibles than lauding his nobility of soul.

The very qualities of extreme literacy and articulateness, which used to be regarded as Stevenson's greatest assets, were now mentioned as semi-handicaps. The idea seemed to be that the Stevenson dish could be considerably improved by a helping of Kefauver sauce.

As for the practical politicians, the basic attitude of most of them was typified by two leaders of important delegations who talked with these reporters. For obvious reasons, these men cannot be quoted by name. It is enough to say that they are big men in their states, who picked Stevenson early, stuck with him through thick and thin, and held their delegates in line for him too.

Both of them insisted, perhaps a little guiltily, that Stevenson was a "fine man" and both emphasized his peculiar quality of personal distinction. But both admitted, very frankly, that they did not think Stevenson had much ability to get through to the voters—to establish the close personal and emotional contact with the people that is the real mark of the natural political leader.

They predicted, in fact, that he would make a decidedly indifferent campaign, although both breathed sighs of relief at the presence of Stevenson's able campaign manager, James A. Pinnequin. Pinnequin, they remarked, would at least insure that the campaign would be orderly and well organized, which it certainly was not in 1952.

They had picked Stevenson, these two men said, not because they expected him to make a stirring campaign, but almost because they could count on him, not to. The people of their states, they explained, did not want the kind of rip-roaring, issue-thumping, dust-raising campaigning that Harry Truman and Averell Harriman wanted.

In their states, the mood was an Eisenhower mood, amiable, contented, anti-political and—one had to say it—more than a little complacent. Stevenson's moderation would not offend against that mood. It would fall in with it nicely.

As for the outcome, well, they really did not think Stevenson had a chance of carrying their particular states if Eisenhower's health held up. Of course, you had to remember the big Democratic gains in 1954. But if you were really honest about it, the President's health was the one real factor to watch.

Eisenhower would have a hard time limiting himself to a television campaign.

He would be cruelly pressed for help on the spot by every Republican candidate for every local office from Senator to dog-catcher. If Eisenhower succumbed to the pressures to overdo, if he had another setback of some sort, then the whole picture would change. And then Stevenson, with his moderation making him a sort of Eisenhower image, would have a real chance.

It seems an odd, not to say grim, campaign strategy for one of the two great American political parties. But an amazing number of leading Democrats genuinely are thinking along these lines. (1956 New York Herald Tribune Inc.)

Yardstick of the Years

"WHAT year was that?" they asked. "Let's see," she said, and thought a minute. "It was the year that Richard was born." "Oh, Mother," they said impatiently, "do you date all world events by what happened in the family?"

She flushed a bit as she often did when the children made fun of her a little. Especially when they teased with truth.

Because she did date everything by what happened to her closest friends and to her family. It was her yardstick of the years. The years that seemed to slip by so quickly now that she was almost 70.

For instance, 1897 was not so much the year of Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee, as the year her own father died, suddenly, of a heart attack when she was all alone with him because her mother had taken the younger children up to Scotland for a holiday. For her, the Jubilee rejoicing was always connected with grief for her own father.

She remembered 1906 as the ecstatic year when she met Dick, the year when she saw everything with an eye of wonder, and knew that no one had ever been quite so happy before.

She knew, exactly, the date of the sinking of the Titanic because it happened just a week before she and Dick sailed for Canada.

The Battle of the Somme was Arnold's child being born. They were all so worried then with Arnold probably in the thick of it, and the baby coming sooner than they had thought. Death and birth had been so vividly in their minds, as if one life was coming into the world just as another might be leaving it.

And Vimy Ridge was Mary crying quietly, very quietly, as she came into the room with the telegram in her hand.

Looking back, she remembered the year when the children had measles, and dated things as before or after the year Richard broke his leg.

She remembered the year when Sarah had peritonitis and was so dreadfully ill.

Munich was the year that Sarah married, and "Peace in our time" was mentally linked with the preparations for the wedding.

May, 1940, was the month that Hitler burst through Belgium into France, and the month that Richard's first child was born, and Margaret's first child was born on the day that Paris fell.

Yes, she was certain of that, she told herself, because she so clearly remembered listening to the war news on the radio, and the hospital phoned while she was listening.

It was queer, she thought. The history books would have the dates down in black and white, and her grandchildren would learn them and memorize them, just as she had learned and memorized the battles in the Wars of the Roses, and the later famous four of Blenheim, Ramillies, Dudenarde and Malplaquet.

She'd never really thought of all the little people living while the big, historical events took place.

But the women of the past, and her own forebears among them, had probably measured those events against the personal happenings of their private lives.

Did their children mock them gently as her own children mocked her?

"No, dear," she said suddenly. "That was the year Richard went away to college. It was September, too. I remember it quite clearly because I read it in the paper when I came back from seeing him off. And I was making an apple pie in the little brown dish because the other dish was too big if Richard wasn't there to eat the pie."

"Oh, Mother," they said to themselves impatiently. "She rambles a bit now that she's getting older."

But she wasn't really rambles. She was just getting the dates absolutely right by the method that had served her well for more years than she cared to remember.

Pick Spent Flowers To Produce Others

With August already more than half gone, there is still no fall in the state of summer flowers.

Indeed the season has been just about perfect from a gardener's point of view. There can be few regrets.

Perennials have held their flowers well except in the brief hot spells, when prompt removal of the blossoms as they faded soon brought further bloom on established plants.

Annuals have never been so floriferous. The cooler days of June delayed them by a couple of weeks, but larger root systems resulted, consequently the quantity of flowers seems to have been trebled for each plant.

So long as spent flowers are removed, most of these annuals will continue to give plenty of color until a hard frost hits them.

And still the gardener knows that there is much more beauty to come. With the approach of the fall season, we fortunate folk on the coast may look forward to a brand new season of bloom.

The end of summer is not the end of our flowers. It merely ushers in those muted beauties of the cooler days and nights, which give us courage to plant another garden for another spring.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

The Longest Train Ride

LONDON—at random... Profound remark by visitor Phyllis Brown of the Research Institute of America, putting in a nutshell that basic difference between men and women—that women take things personally and men don't: "Ask a man the question, 'Where did you buy this steak?' and he'll answer: 'At Green's Market.' Ask his wife the same question and she'll answer: 'Why? What's wrong with it?'"

The rain, of which we've been having so much lately, drove young Mac and me into the Gaumont State cinema in the nearby suburb of Kilburn. We were staggered by the size of the place, so much bigger than any of the so-called "picture palaces" in downtown London.

Not surprising that we were impressed, for as we were leaving I learned at the box office that it is the biggest movie theatre in the world—or claims to be. Mac and I—and the 4,198 other people present—quite enjoyed the film.

Thomas Cook's, the travel people, indicate a further easing of relations between Russia and Britain. They now list in their Continental timetables details of the world's longest train ride, the 5,800-mile trans-Siberian trip from Moscow to Vladivostok. Russia has just released schedules and fares for anyone from the outside world who wants to make the journey.

The first class fare is about $270 and second class $160. (How that compares with the trans-Canada trip on a pro-rata basis, you would know better than I.) The trans-Siberian journey takes eight days and five hours—a whole day faster than pre-war.

There has been a National Crossword Championship for a money prize and a trophy, to find who is Britain's crack crossword solver. The super-difficult puzzle set to decide the issue was successfully solved by 14 finalists, so to break the tie they were asked to think up the cleverest clue they could to the words "Mixed Doubles."

Judged the best was the clue by a man who now becomes Britain's crossword king, P. Badham of Wimborne, Dorset. His clue: "Do dumb exiles go courting in pairs?" And if you know anything about English-type crosswords, that's very ingenious.

The Welsh and the Scots, forever resentful of the fact that there is a tendency to lump them in with the English and not give them full national recognition, are having a crumb thrown their way by the postmaster general. He announces new stamps in the 2½d., 4d. and 1s. 3d. denominations which will have special "patriotic" designs for Wales and Scotland.

There will also be an individual design to please the people of Northern Ireland. These three denominations will give the Welsh, Scots and Northern Irish maximum publicity for they are the basic stamps for domestic, Continental and overseas airmail postage. But the new stamps will not bear the names of the places, Britain sticking to its claim of being the only nation in the world that doesn't have its name on its stamps.

Marlene Wins Third Open Title

Sensational Shot Wins Extra Hole

WINNIPEG (CP)—A sensational short-iron pitch to within one foot of the cup on the first extra hole of a scheduled 36-hole final Saturday gave Marlene Stewart of Fonthill, Ont., victory over Pat Lesser of Seattle and her third straight Canadian Women's Open Golf Championship.

It was a heartbreaking loss for Miss Lesser, who had come from behind a two-hole deficit to tie the match, then take the lead for the first time on the 34th.

Miss Stewart canned a 15-foot putt for a birdie three on the 35th to tie the game. They halved the 36th with par fives to send the match into the extra hole.

CROWD ROARS APPROVAL

A crowd of about 4,000 cheerers' approval as Miss Lesser picked up her opponent's ball and tossed it to Miss Stewart for a conceded birdie on the 37th following the tremendous pitch shot.

Then the bespectacled defending American amateur champion lined up her own 15-foot putt. Her shot failed to hold on the line and rolled off to the left. The spectators mobbed onto the green, screaming and jumping about.

A breathless and beaming Miss Stewart said: "Somebody must have been smiling on me from above" when she made the game-winning pitch on the 37th.

"What more can I say, it was one of the best matches I have ever been in."

Miss Lesser took her defeat in good spirit.

"It was a wonderful match. I felt I was getting back on my game on those last nine holes and that's a good thing. I hadn't been shooting too well all week."

The American girl plans to defend her U.S. amateur title at Indianapolis next month. Miss Stewart also intends to compete in the amateur.

WINS SECOND CANADIAN TITLE

Moe Ponders Going Pro

EDMUNDSTON, N.B. (CP)—Moe Norman of Kitchener, Ont., Saturday won his second consecutive Canadian amateur golf championship, then sat down to ponder whether to turn professional or play amateur golf in the United States.

Obviously pleased with the way he was playing, Norman beat Jerry Magee of Toronto, 5 and 4, in the 36-hole final round of the championship.

He said later he played better than last year.

"I played real steady golf, especially these last two days. I

Final Round Gives Furgol Top Money

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Ed Furgol of St. Louis staged a spectacular comeback Sunday to win the $35,000 Milwaukee open golf tournament with a 15-under-par 265 for 72 holes.

Trailing Jackie Burke, Masters and PGA champion from Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., by two strokes, going into the final round, the lame-armed Furgol hammered out a methodical five-under-par 65 for a first prize of $6,000 and a new red and white station wagon.

Second place went to Gene Littler of Singing Hills, Calif., who fired a 66 Sunday, with a four-round score of 289 over the hilly, wind-swept, par-70 Tripoli Country Club course, while Burke had 270 for third.

Al Balding of Toronto, after stroking a sparkling first-round 66, went over par Sunday with a 71 for a total of 275 and a tie for seventh place with Carry Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn.

Dick's Broken Axle Robbed Him of Win

Dick Willoughby had to be content with second spot Saturday night in Western Speedway's 30-lap stock car main event, but only because he broke an axle.

Willoughby, going after his sixth main event win of the year, was leading the pack in the 21st lap when he broke the axle. He dropped back to third but managed to creep up to second to finish behind the winner, Lamont Brooks.

Brooks added to his own season record in the trophy dash by winning his seventh of the year. He missed a clean sweep of the evening's action when he finished fifth in the fast heat.

Lokomotiv Edges Canadian 'Stars'

TORONTO (CP)—Moscow Lokomotiv Saturday night squeezed out a narrow 2-1 win over Canadian All Stars to take a five-game clean-sweep tour home to Russia.

The Russian squad, accustomed to comfortable Canadian soccer victories, ran into sterner stuff under Varsity Stadium's new floodlights. A crowd of 18,249 roaring fans hailed the international match for its quick, clever soccer from both sides.

The Russians opened the scoring in the first half when a Canadian player hooped the ball toward his own goal and gave Lokomotiv inside right Valentin Bubukin a sitting-duck score.

Inside left Victor Voroshilov scored the second. Centre forward Brian Philley headed a picture pass that hit the post and rolled in past a substitute goalie for Canada's goal.

TODAY'S GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP)—An aggressive demand for rye from American interests and shippers featured otherwise dull trade today on the Winnipeg grain exchange. Advances in rye on the Chicago market also helped the upturn in prices here.

Flax prices became irregular after early firmness which was prompted by reports of frost in some sections of the Prairies. Oats and barley had domestic shipping demand. Barley had a few export orders and oats some U.S. demand.

Lakehead prices on class two, IWA and domestic wheat all dropped one-quarter cent.

CHICAGO (AP)—All rye futures spurred to new seasonal highs while the rest of the grain market puttered around without getting anywhere on the board of trade today.

Advancing prices for rye were tied in with gains in that cereal at Winnipeg. The Canadian crop is expected to be much smaller this year and production is also down in the United States.

Late in the day wheat firmed a bit, apparently helped by the strength in rye. Other grains held around previous closing levels.

POOL PUSHING WASN'T FUNNY

Diana Dors' Husband Clobbers Playful Photog

From AP and UP
BEVERLY HILLS, Calif.—Actress Diana Dors and her husband, Dennis Hamilton, were nursing injuries today along with a photographer they say pushed them into their swimming pool during a gay housewarming party.

The British couple went into the water at the shallow end of the pool Sunday night along with two male guests. All were fully clothed.

The other two in the dunked quartet were Miss Dors' agent, Louis Schurr, and her dress designer, Howard Shoup.

The photographer, Stuart Sawyer, 32, of the United Press, was slugged in a fight that followed. Hamilton admitted striking Sawyer, who later flatly denied pushing anyone.

Witnesses at the lavish party and Miss Dors herself claimed that Sawyer, or someone, pushed the quartet into the water, perhaps as a gag which Diana said "wasn't funny at all, if it was intended to be."

The witnesses said Hamilton acted "like a tiger" as he knocked Sawyer to the ground and sat on him, beating his bloody face while Miss Dors screamed "unprintable words" and kicked at the photographer's head.

Miss Dors complained of a sore back and was put to bed. Sawyer suffered a possible broken nose, facial lacerations and bruises on the face, head and ribs, a physician reported.

Sawyer denied pushing the quartet into the water, adding "I don't remember anything until I woke up in a car."

A number of film notables were among the large group of persons invited to the lavish party.

FAMED POODLE DOG CAFE TO BE PUT UP FOR SALE

The Poodle Dog Cafe, one of Victoria's famous restaurants which has become widely known throughout Canada and the United States, will be sold.

An agreement to put the restaurant up for sale was reached in Supreme Court Friday between Margaret E. Johnston and Henry R. Barnett, both of Victoria, co-owners of the well-known Government Street restaurant.

The agreement was reached during the hearing of the petition of Mrs. Johnston, who asked for a court order for the appointment of a liquidator to wind up the business of the cafe.

The petitioner claimed there was complete disagreement between herself and Mr. Barnett as to the management of the restaurant. For this reason she wanted the business wound up.

Mr. Barnett opposed the petition. The hearing came to an abrupt end when the two directors consented to offer the restaurant for sale.

BETWEEN TIMES

By

MONTE ROBERTS

Women of the world, unite! Your hard-won freedom is in danger. The equality for which you battled over the years is threatened.

In the state of Oregon, U.S.A., lady wrestlers have been outlawed.

Shades of Sylvia Pankhurst! This incredible news is enough to send every red-blooded American girl rushing to the ramparts and polishing up the guillotines.

And do not accuse me of making this up. The news is true—lamentably, regrettably true.

As might be expected, it is the jealous male who has brought about this abrupt cessation of what has come to be accepted as a normal female vocation.

Lady wrestlers, treated with respect and their rightful due of admiration in other parts, are banned in Oregon.

Last week, the state supreme court upheld a law forbidding wrestling matches between women. Justice Walter L. Tooez (a man, naturally) delivered the judgment thusly: "It seems to us the statute intended that there should be at least one island on the sea of life reserved for men that would be impregnable to the assault of women . . . in the field of sports she has taken up baseball, basketball, golf, etc., in all of which she has become more or less proficient and in some has excelled."

"In the business and industrial fields . . . she has matched her wit and prowess with those of mere man and we are frank to concede, in many instances has outdone him. In those circumstances, is it any wonder that the legislative assembly took advantage of the police power of the state in its decision to halt this ever-increasing feminine encroachment upon what for ages had been considered strictly manly arts and privileges?"

Now, isn't that just like a man?

Because women can do something better than men, men up and pass a law against it.

It is rank discrimination, and women should get together and do something about it.

Retaliation is called for.

As a starter, how about the women of the world getting together and taking away from man one of his most cherished privileges?

Namely, washing the supper dishes.

Father of Four Held on Charge Of Burglary

Ernest Edward Dunstan, father of four children, was remanded one day without plea in city police court today on a charge of breaking and entering.

Dunstan is accused of breaking into the Goodwill Bottling Co. office, 53 Erie, early Friday. He is identified as a former employee of the firm.

Investigation is continuing into a fire discovered at 4.30 a.m. Friday in the bottling firm office, which caused between $2,000 and $3,000 damage to furniture.

A company official said $153, mostly in small bills, was stolen from a cash drawer.

Visitor to City, Aged Woman Hurt In Auto Accident

A 76-year-old Edmonton woman was reported in "fairly good" condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital today with injuries suffered in a traffic accident Sunday afternoon at Pandora and Fernwood.

THEY WERE BOTH LUCKY

OUT ON A LIMB

Seagoing Kitten Taken From Log

By BILL RAYNER

This could be called a fishy story, or ever a catty one.

Ed Peterson of 1147 Newport discovered while fishing Sunday off Victoria a strait challenger perched on a four-foot log about a mile out from Albert Head.

It was a little white kitten, approximately three weeks old.

The wee thing was obviously out to swim, or float, the Strait of Juan de Fuca, realizing even at its tender age that a channel-conquering cat would even be more of a celebrity than Cliff or Marilyn or Gus.

Not to mention the eventual acquisition of a sponsor with unlimited access to fresh milk.

Mr. Peterson was out fishing in his 21-foot cruiser when he spied the kitten perched resolutely on the log, and manoeuvred to within 25 feet to record the historic bid on film with his camera.

At that moment the cat decided to give up its attempt however, and swam the 25 feet from the log over to the boat.

Mr. Peterson hauled in the ferrying feline, fed it and wrapped it in a blanket.

Up to this time, Mr. Peterson had been fishing for salmon without any luck at all.

But right after the kitten, came aboard, he caught four cod in a row.

So now the kitten named "Lucky" in honor of the four cod, is resting comfortably at Mr. Peterson's home.

Mr. Peterson hasn't yet decided yet whether to keep Lucky, give it away or try and find the previous owner, but you can be sure that Lucky won't be making another strait attempt for a while.

Second Suspect In Park Outrage Being Trained

Man Now Held Pleads Guilty

Police investigation into vandalism at Beacon Hill Park last week has led to a second suspect, it was disclosed in city court today.

Prosecutor Alan Bigelow said the suspect has not yet been charged, "but we know where he is."

It is believed he is in Eastern Canada and will be returned to face trial.

The prosecutor made the disclosure in asking Magistrate A. I. Thomas for a remand to Aug. 24 of James Patrick Kennedy, 24-year-old sailor from HMCS Naden.

Kennedy pleaded guilty to taking part in smashing 38 windows at the Lookout and pulling up a drinking fountain near the bowling green early Wednesday.

It was believed six youths who subsequently entered an apartment block near the park where they damaged flower stands were responsible for the destruction.

Two Island Boats Win Top Prizes At Hatzic Lake

Two Island boats won events on Sunday in the annual Vancouver Powerboat Association regatta at Hatzic Lake, near Mission City.

Percy Stacey's Class B outboard runabout took first place in its event, while J. Van Bergen won the 136 Class Hydros.

Only other Island entry to gain points was Alex Stevenson of Nanaimo, who placed third in the Class B outboard runabout competition.

Esquimalt Tonight To Hit Amalgamation

Council to Meet in Camera; Most Say Time Not Ripe for Area Merger

Esquimalt council is expected to take a negative stand on the amalgamation report against vigorous opposition of one councillor, at a "closed-door" meeting in Municipal Hall tonight.

The "in-committee" meeting was called by Reeve A. C. Wurtele, one of Esquimalt's delegates to a special intermunicipal committee, which will study the report submitted in June to senior and junior chambers of commerce by Dr. George Hougham, assistant director of the Citizens' Research Institute of Canada, Toronto.

The amalgamation report proposes union of city, Oak Bay, Esquimalt, View Royal and southern Saanich under a single administration. Dr. Hougham took a leading role in planning for Metropolitan Toronto.

Reeve Wurtele declined to comment on the issue prior to tonight's meeting.

"We will uphold the opinion of the council," he said.

Some of his councillors were more outspoken. Lone supporter of amalgamation, Councillor Gerry Sammon said: "I'm in favor of amalgamation of all essential services, fire, light, health and other public utilities. The report must be considered carefully, because all municipalities would have to share the costs of amalgamation."

He pointed out that the report does not state the basic cost to each municipality. "For instance, we would be expected to chip in for new sewers in Saanich and Victoria," he said. "But these things are inevitable and we're going to have to face them some day."

"The ratepayers should be given an opportunity to study the report," he continued. "I don't think the mayor's special committee should make any decision. It should be decided by a referendum. Provincial authorities should make a statement on this report, too, instead of just sitting on the fence."

Other opinions on the council range from total opposition to a "maybe some day, but not now" attitude.

"Nothing could be gained by amalgamation," said Councillor J. E. Carey. "My attitude is absolutely negative and I won't budge from that stand at all."

He will be supported by Coun. James Bryant, who is also firmly opposed to amalgamation.

"We're not ready for amalgamation yet," said Coun. Walter Holder. "The time will come for amalgamation, but at present I am against the plan."

Coun. Arthur Fields also will record a "no" vote. "We have very little to gain by amalgamation," he said. "In a few years there may be some reason for it, but at this time Esquimalt would gain nothing and lose a great deal."

"We believe there's good reason to avoid amalgamation," added Coun. George Argyle. "The present setup of joint health, welfare, library and water is ample to cover our requirements."

"It is very unlikely that amalgamation will come in the foreseeable future," he concluded.

More Religious Teaching Asked

Archbishop Puts Request To Provincial Government

Archbishop of British Columbia Harold E. Sexton Sunday called on Premier W. A. C. Bennett to make available "adequate" religious instruction in B.C.'s schools.

In his sermon at Christ Church Cathedral he said "B.C. lags behind every other Canadian province in this respect."

His Grace said there is "a very general recognition 'of the need for religious instruction in the province's schools, and provincial government move in this direction would be 'a priceless service to the children of Christian parents."

The present "anti-religious attitude" of many teen-agers, he said, is not surprising as many have no moral or spiritual training at home and have attended schools where religious instruction has no part of the regular curriculum.

"A purely secular system of education will not suffice for our needs of today," he said.

Rights of atheists and rationalists could be protected by a conscience clause, as in other places, he said.

Previous B.C. provincial governments have, for the most part, ignored religious education in schools as "they have seemingly regarded it as politically inexpedient to accede to the repeated representations of the respective Christian bodies made to them over the past 40 years."

The archbishop called on Premier Bennett to examine provisions for religious education in schools of other provinces "in order to give us the same privileges enjoyed by most Canadians."

City Benefits In Grants on Population Rise

Preliminary 1956 census figures released in Ottawa today indicated Victoria will benefit by an added $10,426 in provincial government municipal aid grants next year.

First figures prepared by the bureau of statistics show a distinct rise in Canada's urban population, and the Victoria city population is shown as 52,935, an increase of 1,604 over the 51,331 tabulation for 1951.

The bureau issued figures for population totals at June 1 this year in some 500 cities, towns and incorporated villages.

Today's figures are subject to revision, and will be released with other final figures at a later date, probably in the fall.

The city this year received $454,651.50 under the province's Municipalities Aid Act, which replaced former grants to local areas from sales tax and motor vehicle licence receipts.

If the federal census figures goes unchanged this year, the city will receive $465,077.50 next year.

All grants of this nature are based on the 1951 federal census figures. This year represents the first year of federal government interim censuses, or surveys taken five years apart instead of the former 10 years.

Formula for the provincial grant is $16 per capita up to 3,500 population; $12 for each person between 3,500 and 8,000; $8 for each person between 8,000 and 50,000; and $6.50 for each person over 50,000.

Eventual outcome of the census is expected to show Canada's population has risen in the five-year interval from 15,000,000 to about 16,000,000.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Touch your left toe with your left hand, then the right toe with the right hand. Continue for ten times. This will slim your waist.

Can't Find Your Waist? Better Exercise Then

A PARODY OF SORTS
Some days when in the glass I stare
I see a waist that isn't there.
I saw it there again today.
Ye gods, I wish it'd come to stay.

It wasn't your imagination!
It is there all right. It is just hidden by layers of fat and lax muscles. And it will not come to stay unless you do something about it.

Nothing gives the figure such a boost toward beauty as a slim waist. If your waist is trim you can carry a few extra inches in your hip measurement and still look lithe. If your waist is slim your bust will appear larger. There is something about thickening in the middle which is definitely aging in appearance.

Naturally, if you are overweight you will have to count your calories, but even when you do fatty deposits have a tendency to cling to this portion of the figure from middle age on, unless you exercise.

The following exercise is splendid for slimming the waistline. Stand tall with your feet separated. Bend your right elbow and place the palm of your right hand on the top of your head. Keep it there while you bend to the left, trying to touch your left toe with the fingers of your left hand. Raise your trunk. Continue for ten times. Now place the palm of your left hand on the top of your head, bend to the right and try to touch the fingers of your right hand to your right toe. Raise trunk and continue.

Big warning. Keep your knees stiff or this exercise will have little value. If you cannot touch your toes with your fingers go as far down toward the floor as possible on the bend. After practice, which will stretch your leg muscles, you will be able to introduce your fingers to your toes.

If you would like to have my tested waist slimming exercises which will take a few inches from your waist measurements in a few weeks time, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 6 "Don't Go to Waist," to Josephine Lowman

Malicious Gossip Requires A Strong Counter-Attack

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, Ph.D.

There are times when the only things that work must be used. In the case, described below, that is true, as I pointed out to the young girl who wrote:

Hurlock

(Q)—"We are a group of high school juniors and we have a problem we hope you can help us to solve. Last winter, a new girl moved into our neighborhood and is in our class at school. She is attractive-looking, dresses well, is quite a talented musician, and seemed like a nice girl. We felt sorry for her as she knew no one in the school so we started to ask her to do things with us. She was very nice to us to our faces but we soon discovered that she told the boys she met through us all kinds of bad things about us and tried to ruin our reputations. We have stopped asking her to do things with us and now she says even worse things about us. How can we stop her and how can we make the boys believe that we don't do the things this girl tells them we do?"
—D.P.

(A)—Much as you may hate to do so, you should tell the boys you know just what this girl has done after your kindnesses to her. Point out to them that you have never done the things she told them you did and let them then decide what side they want to be on.

In addition, you would do well to invite this girl to a party with your group and then call her on the carpet to explain what she said about you and why she said it. Take her by surprise and don't let her have even a suspicion of why you have invited her.

If she has not said the things about you that the boys say she has said, then it will be up to her to explain to the boys that she was blameless. If, on the other hand, she has spread malicious gossip, she will be greatly embarrassed and try to deny it.

As a group, you can make her realize that you will not tolerate such gossiping about you and that you will see to it that she does not get invited to the parties and get-togethers you organize if she ever does such a thing again. If she wants to have friends and be in on what is going on, she will have to change her tactics.

Send your problems to Elizabeth Hurlock, in care of this newspaper.

altar of the cathedral was arranged with bouquets of white gladioli, and guest pews were marked with nosegays of talliesman-toned pom-pom dahlias. Miss M. McKay was organist, and accompanied soloist,

Mr. White sang "Ave Maria."
"Panis Angelicus" and several united in marriage the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Pearce, 3114 Harriet Road, and the son of Mr. W. J. Knox, Calgary, and the late Mrs. Knox.

Given in marriage by her father, the charming bride chose a wedding gown of lace over satin styled on princess lines with a floor-length skirt, featuring a deep flounce of nylon net at the bottom of the skirt. A lace bolero topped the strapless bodice. Her chapel veil misted from a Queen Anne cap of pearl studded lace in complement to her lovely gown.
She carried a white prayer book topped with a spray of dainty talliesman roses.

Bridesmaid Miss Mary Hanson, and junior bridesmaid Miss Leonora Pearce, sister of the bride, were gownned in ballerina-length dresses of nylon over ta-feta in sunset bronze and azure blue, respectively. Their head bandeaux of velvet had floral in-

St. John's Church Scene Of Lloyd-Gelling Vows

Canon George Biddle read the marriage service, Saturday evening in St. John's Anglican Church, when Verna Mildred Gelling exchanged vows with William Herbert Lloyd.

The double-ring ceremony was performed in a setting created with baskets of yellow and white roses. Pew markers were yellow. Esther Reed, daisies, T. Meyers was organist and Mrs. Pauline Prince sang the Bach-Gounod "Ave Maria".

The bride is a daughter of Mr. W. R. Gelling, Port Townsend, Wash., and the groom a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lloyd of New Westminster.

French lace and nylon tulle formed the bridal gown which was fashioned with a hooped bouffant skirt, a strapless lace bodice topped with a matching lace jacket with lily-point sleeves. Appliqued inserts of mother of pearl sequins gave an added touch of elegance to the ensemble. A mother of pearl sequin and seed pearl tiara held the fingertip veil of illusion net and the bouquet was of red roses and stephanotis, with tiny rosebuds and forget-me-nots in the streamers. A single strand of pearls, gift of the groom, completed the ensemble.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Attendants, all nurse classmates of the bride were gowned identically in rose crystal sheer taffeta frocks. They carried cascade bouquets of two-toned yellow Esther Reed daisies and wore headresses of matching blossoms.

Miss Ivy Hadley was maid of honor. Mrs. Jeannette Macintyre, the bridesmatron and Miss Maisie Strang, the bridesmaid. The flower girl, Adele Pellerin wore a frock of the same tone and material as the senior attendants. She carried a basket of summer flowers which were repeated in her hair. Perry Lloyd, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer.

Allan Lloyd, brother of the groom acted as best man and ushers were Thomas Lloyd and Ronald Lloyd.

A reception was held followed by a dance in the Golden Slipper Supper Club where the bride's table was accented with red roses and the three-tier wedding cake with white roses and doves carrying rings. Sam Hanna, an old friend of the bride and groom, proposed the toast.

Assisting in receiving the guests were Mrs. Gelling, stepmother of the bride, who wore a pink dress with white accents.

The honeymoon is being spent in the interior of British Columbia, at Banff and in the United States. The bride travelled in a blue grey suit with navy blue hat and gloves, beige shoes and handbag and corsage of red roses and stephanotis.

Shandley-Robbins Wedding Vows Repeated in Church of Our Lord

Baskets of gladioli and sprays of greenery decorated Church of Our Lord, Saturday evening, forming a lovely setting for the wedding of June Elizabeth Robbins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Robbins, Elk Park Farm, Royal Oak, and Ralph Edward Shandley, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Shandley, 614 Dallas Road. Rev. J. B. Brown conducted the service and Allan Husband sang "Because" during the signing of the register. J. Ingram Smith was organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of nylon tulle over taffeta, the bouffant skirt scattered with lace appliques embroidered with sequins. The bodice was fashioned with two panels of pleated tulle forming a V-neckline, topped by a dainty lace jacket, buttoning from the high, mandarin collar to the fitted waistline. A stiffened lace tiara embroidered with sequins to match her gown, held the bride's fingertip veil of imported French lace. She carried a shower bouquet of white gladioli and red rosebuds and wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom, and a brooch which had belonged to her late grandmother.

Attendants, Miss Maureen Moore, maid of honor, Miss Lillian Harrison, senior bridesmaid, and Miss Patsy Robbins, junior bridesmaid, wore gowns of tiered net over taffeta with inserts of lace, in colors blue, orchid and pink, respectively. They wore headresses, en tone, and carried bouquets of cream gladioli with ribbon to match their gowns. Their jewelry was pearl.

Miss Peggy Robbins, flower girl, wore a frock of green net and lace in six tiers over taffeta, having pink rosebuds scattered around the skirt. Her headress was a lace bonnet and she carried a dainty basket of flowers.

George Preston was best man and ushers were Michael Whitehead and Bill Robbins.

Reception was held in Cridge Memorial Hall, where two large baskets of flowers formed an archway for the bride and groom as they received their guests. A white lace cloth and arrangements of pink carnations decorated the bride's table, which was centred by a wedding cake, made by the bride's mother.

Uncle of the bride, E. Harrison, proposed the toast.

Mrs. Robbins wore for the occasion a royal blue ensemble with white corsage, and Mrs. Frank Shandley a blue silk print dress with feathered cloche and white corsage.

For travelling on honeymoon, the bride chose a box style suit of black and white light weight wool with red accessories. She wore a necklace and earrings set, gift of the groom and a corsage of bebe white gladioli.

Southern Honeymoon, Kitimat Home

After a honeymoon in Santa Barbara, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Bernard Paribby will make their home at Kitimat, B.C.

The couple were married Saturday evening in St. George's United Church, Courtenay, in a ceremony conducted by Rev. Frank Johnson. The fully-crimolined skirt featured a front lace panel, the back showing flounces of scalloped lace. Matching net and lace trimmed with pearls formed her headress which held a veil of pure silk French illusion, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses with stephanotis and white heather.

Organist, D. B. Arnett, played traditional wedding music and Miss Serena Brown sang "A Wedding Prayer" during the signing of the register.

Matron of honor was sister of the bride, Mrs. W. M. Ready; bridesmatron was Mrs. H. Gilmore, cousin of the bride, and bridesmaid was Miss Marjorie Beck. All wore waltz-length gowns of turquoise cotton lace over net and taffeta with matching accessories and carried shower bouquets of pink gladioli and feathered carnations.

Best man was Harold W. Paribby, brother of the groom, and ushers were John Treen and David Paribby, brothers of the bride and groom, respectively.

Reception was held at BPO Elks' Hall, where the toast to the bride was proposed by Dr. E. R. Hicks, Cumberland, B.C. For travelling by plane to California, the bride wore a mirage-blue wool suit and carried a red cashmere coat with white melusine Breton sailor hat, white gloves and patent leather shoes and handbag.

Dispute on Flag Indian Problem

Ottawa Wants No Part in Settling Conflict of Views Between Tribes

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government is going to let British Columbia Indians settle a tribal dispute over adoption of a native "national" flag as an emblem for Canadian Indians.

An official of the Indian Affairs Branch of the Citizenship Department said today that the government, ward of Indians, regards the dispute as a matter of internal band administration. The branch was aware of the controversy but regarded the matter as outside its jurisdiction.

Chief Percy Ross of the Songhees Indian Reserve on Vancouver Island said Sunday that Island bands are against a flag adopted last month by northern B.C. Indians. He said the flag is not of Indian origin and added he suspects a "white" organization that has been campaigning for a national flag for Canada assisted the northern Indians in the design.

The flag was adopted by Chief Frank Assu of Cape Mudge and a band of natives at a meeting of northern Indians last month on Quadra Island.

The flag is divided diagonally from the upper corner to the lower corner next to the staff. The lower half is bright red and the upper is light green, on which is embossed a golden Maple Leaf.

Chief Ross said basic Indian colors are red, black and brown and main Indian symbols are the thunderbird, the beaver and wolf.

Two Swimmers Save Drowning Man at Duncan

DUNCAN (CP)—Quick work by two swimmers saved a 30-year-old man from drowning late Saturday afternoon.

Pete Migadel, who could not swim, waded out beyond his depth at a favorite swimming hole on The Flats near here, and was immediately in difficulty.

Don Yates, who assisted in saving the man, said Migadel had been warned about a hole near where he was walking. "Suddenly the man disappeared," Don said, "and then we saw him floating down river under water."

"Sam Kofski was the first one to reach him. He grabbed the drowning man by the hair and supported him. By this time I had arrived at the spot and between us we took him ashore."

Mr. Yates said that though they did not know much about artificial respiration they were able to help the victim to cough up what water he had swallowed.

The Duncan inhalator crew was soon on the scene and gave further assistance before taking the man back to town.

Antique Dealers Form Association

For the first time, Victoria's antique dealers have come under an authority established to set up a code of ethics.

This was effected when the Victoria Antique Dealers Association was incorporated under the provincial Societies Act.

First president of the newly-formed group is H. Robinson of the Century Arts Shop, with Mrs. Gordon Wismer, secretary-treasurer, and three directors, Mrs. Faith Grant of the Connoisseurs' Shop, Peggy Bartholomew of Murdoch and Bartholomew, and Alice Robertson.

One of the first public activities of the association will be an Antique Dealers Fair to be held in the Empress Hotel, Oct. 9 and 10.

My side of the story

We had decided to make a trip to Germany. The idea for the trip originated with Charles Bedaux, the French industrialist at whose chateau we had been married.

Mr. Bedaux knew of David's interest in low-cost housing projects in Britain and of his visits to Austria, France, Denmark and Sweden to study pioneering experiments in this field.

When, therefore, Charles Bedaux suggested that his German industrialist friends would be glad to show David the remarkable things that were being done in Germany, David's curiosity was instantly whetted—especially since an idea had been evolving in his mind that he might carve out a useful and dignified career in fostering large-scale housing developments, either in Europe or the United States.

Mr. Bedaux insisted that the visit could be made without David's becoming involved in any Nazi propaganda schemes, and that we would travel under the auspices of private German citizens.

David was well aware of some of the sinister aspects of the Nazi regime and of the growing concern with which the world regarded Hitler.

However, David no longer had any official position, and in his view he was perfectly free to visit any foreign country he chose without prejudicing his country's diplomatic relations. It never occurred to him that this purely private trip could become a cause of public concern.

Disturbing Development

We left Paris for Berlin early in October. That the British Government was dissociating itself from our visit was evident the instant we got off the train. While a number of German officials, headed by Dr. Robert Ley, the leader of the Nazi National Labour Front, were on the platform to welcome us, only a third secretary from the British Embassy met us.

He brought with him a note from Sir George Ogilvie-Forbes, the charge d'affaires. Ogilvie-Forbes wrote that the ambassador, Sir Neville Henderson, had rather unexpectedly left Berlin and that he himself had been directed by the Foreign Office to take no official cognizance of our presence. This was a disturbing development, and there were more to come.

It now turned out that our German guide was not to be an industrialist, as Bedaux had assured us, but Dr. Ley, who was also the Nazi official responsible for housing projects. He was a strange and unpleasant man; in fact not actually an alcoholic, he was a noisy, chronic drinker.

David soon discovered that the man fortified himself periodically during the day with infusions of schnapps. By evening he was usually in what might be described as the schnapps equivalent of the fifth-martini stage—unsteady, emotional, and bombastic. His ugliest side would then come into view.

A Man Driven by Sheer Evil

We had been told that Dr. Ley, as a young man in the chaos of Germany after the First World War, had been a fanatic Communist who had become a Nazi, an anti-Communist fighter, and a wrecked of the Weimar Republic.

To me he appeared to be the arch-type of the revolutionary—a man driven by sheer evil to undermine the existing order, whatever it might be, and who would lend his ugly talents to any enterprise dedicated to such an end.

Our meeting with Field Marshal Goering presented us with another view of Nazi life. An invitation to join him and Frau Goering for tea at Karinhalle, his country place 40 miles from Berlin, was extended to us out of the blue. A Luftwaffe officer, very polite, very correct, came to fetch us.

Entering a magnificent forest, our car pursued a winding road, then suddenly came into a clearing in which stood an imposing stone house with a thatched roof, reminiscent of an ancient baronial hall.

Goering, in an immaculate white uniform, with rows of medal ribbons across the tunic, and Frau Goering met us at the door. They led us to a large drawing room, where we had tea at a massive round table wide enough to dance on.

By any standards Karinhalle was quite a house. It contained, among other features, a private gymnasium equipped with weight-lifting apparatus, an electric exercising horse, horizontal bars, and a massage apparatus bearing the Elizabeth Arden trade-mark—a gadget one would scarcely have expected to find in a field marshal's gymnasium.

A Shadow of Things to Come

Only once did international politics intrude during the visit. In the library, above the mantel, was a map of Germany, with national frontiers marked off and Germany painted black. While Goering was showing me a trophy from his days as an ace in the First World War, David strolled across the room to study the map.

Just then a servant entered the library to hand a message to the field marshal. While he was reading it, I caught a signal from David.

As I joined him beside the map, he whispered: "Look quickly at Austria. Frontiers gone."

The black of Germany had indeed overflowed the entire expanse of Austria, clear beyond Vienna.

As Goering came across the room David said, "Excellent, this is a very interesting map." Obviously pleased, Goering replied, "I've just had it made—a fine example of the new German cartography."

The rolls of flesh on Goering's face puckered into mirth. "Ho, ho," he cried. "You refer, sir, to the incorporation of Austria into Germany. Well, I needed a new map, and since Austria will soon join Germany—voluntarily, of course—it seemed more economical to anticipate the event. Saves the trouble of having the map done over again."

When the Anschluss took place five months later, David remarked: "Those German cartographers certainly had it right. But Goering has a strange idea of what 'voluntary' means."

BEN, AMY GET ACROSS

City-to-City Chef's Target

Endurance king Ben Laughren, who with Amy Hilland completed the short-cut route across the Strait of Juan de Fuca Saturday, declared today that he intends to keep trying the swim until he completes it from city to city.

Marilyn's Diary

Shells Folks!
This was a real whirl of a weekend.

On Saturday morning, as you know, we all went down to the City Hall, with a motorcycle escort, for Cliff's civic reception.

After that, Gus took me out and I swam for half an hour and believe me, after Cliff's fine swim, I certainly am putting everything into my practice sessions.

When we got back to the hotel we heard the news about Ben Laughren and Amy Hilland and their swim. I and I sent them both a wire saying "Congratulations on a fine swim. We know how tough it is."

On Saturday night, Cliff Lumsdon, swimmer and city hall orator, unleashed another of his talents on us. You may not know this, but Cliff is a hilarious entertainer. As a storyteller he is a riot but as a mimic, Cliff did imitations of many famous people and had us in stitches with a routine in which he interviewed Bert Thomas.

We showed our appreciation for Cliff's talents by chasing him outside and turning a water hose on him. But Cliff got a bucket of water, climbed up on the roof and poured it down on us. He thought he was pretty smart until he found he couldn't get down. He stayed up there for a long time while we pretended we had phoned the fire department to bring their ladder. But after considerable worrying, sweating and climbing along the eaves, Cliff finally got down under his own power.

On Sunday, Cliff took over as coach for my one-hour practice swim and invented a completely new set of signals. He waved his hand and wig-wagged his arms and did everything to confuse me.

One time he said, "Marilyn, would you mind swinging a bit to the left? I don't want you to hit that shark."

Great sense of humor, that boy. But if you think you can't put up with him, it doesn't take long to see that you can't do without him. Cliff and Joan left for home last night and already we miss them.

PORT ANGELES TO CHURCH POINT

Two of the most persistent of the many Strait challengers, Ben Laughren, and his trainer, Ove Witt, smile happily after landing at Church Point Saturday. The landing came 10 hours after they set off from Ediz Hook on their 10th attempt to complete a Strait crossing. Both still are determined to make a city-to-city swim. Ben would like to make two-way try.

PORT ANGELES TO WILLIAM HEAD

Residents of Port Angeles turned out in force Saturday night to greet swimmer Amy Hilland and present her with a bouquet of red roses. Amy, aided by

WIRE BRIEFS

TORONTO (CP)—Bill Slater, 16-year-old Vancouver high school student, today broke his own Canadian record for the senior men's 1,650-yard free style event at the Canadian swimming championships and Olympic trials. He covered the distance in 19 minutes, 24.4 seconds.

Sooner Than Expected

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. John F. Tattler, 26, gave birth to a baby boy Sunday, four hours after she was injured in an auto collision while being driven to hospital. Both drivers also were hurt, neither critically. Mrs. Tattler and her son were reported doing well.

Fruitmen Ask Aid

KELOWNA (CP)—The British Columbia Fruit Growers' Association today made a formal request to Agriculture Minister Kiernan that the Distress Assistance Act be applied to the tree fruit industry.

Flying Pay Hoisted

OTTAWA (CP)—Flying pay for members of Canada's armed services, both active and reserve, has been more than doubled, retroactive to July 1, Defence Minister Campney announced today. The new aircrew flying pay has been put on a graduated scale beginning at $75 a month and running as high as $150. The old rate was $30 a month.

Hollywood Stars Put GOP Show on the Road

From UP and AP

SAN FRANCISCO — Hollywood helped open the Republican convention at 11 a.m. today with more entertainment acts than speeches because, actor George Murphy explained, politics are getting more like show business.

Today's convention calendar looked more like a program for Hollywood's Oscar night than for a big political meeting. More entertainers than ever before in political history performed numbers before the "footlights" of the cavernous Cow Palace.

Irene Dunne is doing the president's prayer. Murphy rounded up 11 Republican stars to perform for free from Ethel Merman singing "Great Day" to Dennis Morgan crooning "One Alone." Wendell Corey was recruited as master of ceremonies, with Jane Powell to sing the national anthem.

President Eisenhower was reliably reported today to be ready to give Vice-President Nixon a clear track for re-nomination.

In the face of a campaign by Harold E. Stassen to dump Nixon, the vice-president's associates said they had received assurances that Eisenhower would not submit any list of men he regards as qualified and acceptable to him as a running mate.

Stassen pinned his drive to replace Nixon on a hope that Eisenhower would let it be known before the convention's balloting session Wednesday that some others would be equally suitable as a vice-presidential nominee.

The delegates are here to do what is expected of them—nominate Eisenhower and Nixon. Any other result would be a political miracle.

Why are th' Lib'rals promisin' t' lower th' sales tax when Mister Bennett's lowered it t' five per cent from three already.

Guess th' next thing fer th' Strait swimmers is a shuttle service.

One thing about political conventions, y' hev t' observe 'em as well as attend 'em.

SOMMERS CASE

Tory Chief To Tell All Tonight

VANCOUVER (CP) — Progressive Conservative leader Deane Finlayson will disclose at a public meeting tonight the imputations made last December against former lands and forests minister, R.E. Sommers.

The threatened disclosure—to be made at a party rally in North Vancouver—follows closely a warning issued by Alfred Bull, Q.C., Mr. Sommers' lawyer, that Mr. Finlayson will be cited for contempt of court if he discusses details of the Sommers-Sturdy slander case during the current election campaign.

The issue came before the supreme court last February when Mr. Sommers sued Vancouver lawyer David Sturdy for slander and resigned his cabinet post. The case is still before the court.

Mr. Sturdy's information was first presented to Attorney-General Robert Bonner last December. Later an attempt was made by Mr. Sturdy to lay the "body of evidence" before Chief Justice Sloan's royal commission on forestry. The chief justice ruled his commission did not give him authority to hear the statements.

After Mr. Sommers resigned his post in a dramatic sitting of the legislature, Attorney-General Bonner ordered the RCMP to make an inquiry. Insp. W. J. Butler, now retired, filed a report which the AG has said will not be made public.

CCFer Calls Premier 'Political Clown'

FLEETWOOD, B.C. (CP) — Erhart Regier, MP for Burnaby-Coquitlam, Sunday denounced the B.C. Social Credit government as "an insult to democracy."

Speaking at the annual CCF picnic in Fleetwood Park, Mr. Regier said the province is ruled by a "political clown and a political gang of illegitimate offsprings out of the unholy wedding of coalition."

He said "the political bandits have misused all churches, and obtain campaign funds from big business and liquor interests."

Concerning highways and bridges, the outspoken MP said all that has been produced are blueprints, pledges and promises, with no major bridges yet opened, or highways built equal in scope to the John Hart or Hope-Princeton highways.

The lower mainland has received a "raw deal" in the $60,000,000 highways budget, he said.

Taxes, he continued, are higher in B.C. than in any other province.

He concluded: "This government is an insult to the name of democracy. We don't want any dictator to rule the roost. B.C. wants to be the master of its own destiny."

Reduction to 4% Highlights Party's 12-Point Program

VANCOUVER (CP)—The B.C. Liberal Association today released an election platform calling for immediate reduction of the provincial sales tax to 4 per cent, establishment of a department of youth affairs and appointment of an independent highway commission.

The platform, set forth in a statement issued by Liberal leader Arthur Laing, contains 12 points on which the party will campaign in the Sept. 19 provincial election.

Besides taxes, highways and youth, the platform deals with natural resources and development; industrial relations and workers' compensation; social welfare; agriculture; municipal and Indian affairs; provincial finances and the democratic function of the opposition.

Mr. Laing's statement said consumer taxes are moving steadily higher and now provide 54 per cent of the annual revenue.

'Waste' in Road Work 'Incalculable'

Mr. Laing claimed that B.C.'s total budget is five times higher than it was in 1945, yet the province spends a smaller percentage of its budget on roads than most other Canadian provinces.

"The present spotty, disconnected program creates the impression of construction everywhere, but has resulted in incalculable waste of men, machines and material."

On day rates, the statement says, roads are being built for which no engineering plans have been made, surveys have not been completed and "quantities have not been calculated."

Liberals, it continues, "will return to a highway program of competent engineering, planned development and competitive

"The Social Credit government raised the provincial sales tax to 5 per cent, making us the highest taxed province in Canada in this field. The revenues received from this increase of 66 per cent over the former rate were taken directly into the general revenues of the province."

"With the growth of population and continuing prosperity throughout Canada, Liberals believe that adequate provincial sales tax revenues can be obtained from a sales tax of 4 per cent without disturbing the present arrangements for B.C. Hospital Insurance."

contracts for all capital construction... we will appoint an independent highway commission to study needs, fix priorities and set highway completion dates."

The platform calls for the formation of a department of youth affairs under a responsible minister "to aid our youth in education, sports, the arts and all their endeavors and to combat the ever-growing problem of juvenile delinquency."

Other points contained in the platform:

1. "Guard against dissipation of our natural resources—forest, fish, power."
2. "Establish a permanent development board to do for British Columbia what the Gordon commission is now doing for Canada."
3. "Re-establish a full-time board of industrial relations; extend workmen's compensation to include all commercial fishermen; provide arbitration rights for the civil service of British Columbia; refer all labor matters to the standing House committee on labor."
4. "Honor our responsibility to the aged, sick and poor."
5. "Meet disaster to agriculture with direct action."
6. "Restore the authority of municipal councils and school boards."
7. "Revitalize the provincial advisory committee on Indian affairs."
8. "Re-establish true and conventional methods in stating the debt and financial position of the province."
9. "Respect the democratic function of the opposition, as criticism is the symbol of a free society."

West Cool To Nehru's Suez Plan

LONDON (AP)—The United States today laid the Western proposal for international operation of the Suez Canal before the 22-power Suez conference. A few minutes earlier India had proposed a compromise giving Egypt the major role in operating the waterway.

The delegates did not get around to discussing either in the formal meeting.

State secretary Dulles submitted the West's proposals for a Suez Canal board, with Egypt as one member, "for operating and developing the canal and enlarging it so as to increase the volume of traffic in the interests of world trade and of Egypt."

(According to the Cairo press, the Western proposals already have been rejected by Egypt's special envoy here, Wing Cmdr. Ali Sabry.)

India's V. K. Krishna Menon suggested Egyptian ownership and operation, and the formation of a group embracing both the user interests and the Egyptian "operating" corporation.

Though there was no discussion of the two plans, Menon obviously failed to sway western diplomats with his proffered compromise.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O GOD, by whose mighty labors the world is created, we pray today for the people who toil. May they strive to produce things useful and excellent, such as enrich the common life. Grant that all who benefit by the workers' labor may support them in their struggle for justice, equality, and abundant life; in the name of Jesus. Amen.

RAFT NEARS LAND'S END

The raft Legare II, which set out for an Atlantic crossing from Nova Scotia May 24, today requested a tow to Falmouth. The raft was in rough water, 19 miles off Land's End, and hailed the steamer Blyndendyk, which called the Land's End lifeboat. One man was taken off the B.C. cedar log raft, but the two other French-born Canadian adventurers remained aboard for the last leg of their 2,500-mile drift across the ocean.

SUDBURY UNDERTAKES JAPAN TOW

Island Tug and Barge Ltd. has secured a major towing assignment for the deep-sea towing and salvage vessel Ss. Sudbury, her first big job since the epic Makedonia salvage tow last fall.

Sudbury is taking a scrap-iron laden barge from B.C. to Japan, where the barge will be broken up for scrap.

Tug and tow will leave this week on the long tow, which will take an estimated 45 days over the great circle route.

Capt. Harley Blagborne, master of the Sudbury for the Makedonia tow, is still in command.

Britain's Top Roman Catholic Prelate Dies

LONDON (CP) — Bernard Cardinal Griffin, Archbishop of Westminster and Britain's highest Roman Catholic prelate died early today after a heart attack. He was 57, and had been in poor health for the last five years.

The prelate, who had suffered four heart attacks since 1951, died while on vacation in Cornwall.

The prelate offered his resignation to Pope Pius after a heart attack last November. The pontiff declined to accept it.

The son of a Birmingham city councillor, the cardinal was noted as a scholar, church administrator and authority on canon law. Educated at Cotton College in Warwickshire and in Rome, he was ordained in 1924.

He succeeded the late Arthur Cardinal Hinsley as Archbishop of Westminster and leader of Britain's 3,500,000 Roman Catholics in 1943. Three years later he was elevated to the rank of cardinal.

POPE EXPRESSES SORROW

The body of Cardinal Griffin will be brought to London Thursday or Friday for formal lying-in-state.

A solemn requiem mass is expected to be held in Westminster Cathedral Saturday or Monday. He will be buried in the crypt of the cathedral.

Pope Pius expressed his "profound sorrow" when news of the cardinal's death was brought to him at his summer residence at Castel Gandolfo, 15 miles southwest of Rome.

The death of Britain's cardinal, one of the youngest princes of the Roman Catholic Church, creates the ninth vacancy in the 70-seat College of Cardinals. It has spurred earlier speculation that the Pope may call another consistory to fill the vacant seats.

Cardinal Griffin assumed his high office at the age of 46—young for a cardinal—following the death of the 78-year-old Cardinal Hinsley.

'OLD POLITICAL TACTICS'

Time No Election Factor---Bennett

The opposition parties had lots of time to criticize government legislation reducing the election span from 59 to 38 days, Premier Bennett declared today.

"Instead of complaining now they should have obstructed this legislation when it was passed in the House. They have had plenty of time to try to use the idea. Yet when I name a polling day exactly 38 days after announcing an election, they complain they have been taken by surprise."

The premier insisted that eligible voters have time to register though they could have done so much earlier.

"At every election in this province there has been the same outcry. It is just part of the old political tactics—to try and discredit the reigning government at all costs."

In cheerful mood, the premier joked merrily about opposition tactics in the current campaign and said he noted Liberal leader Arthur Laing had said the provincial Liberal party was now "left of centre."

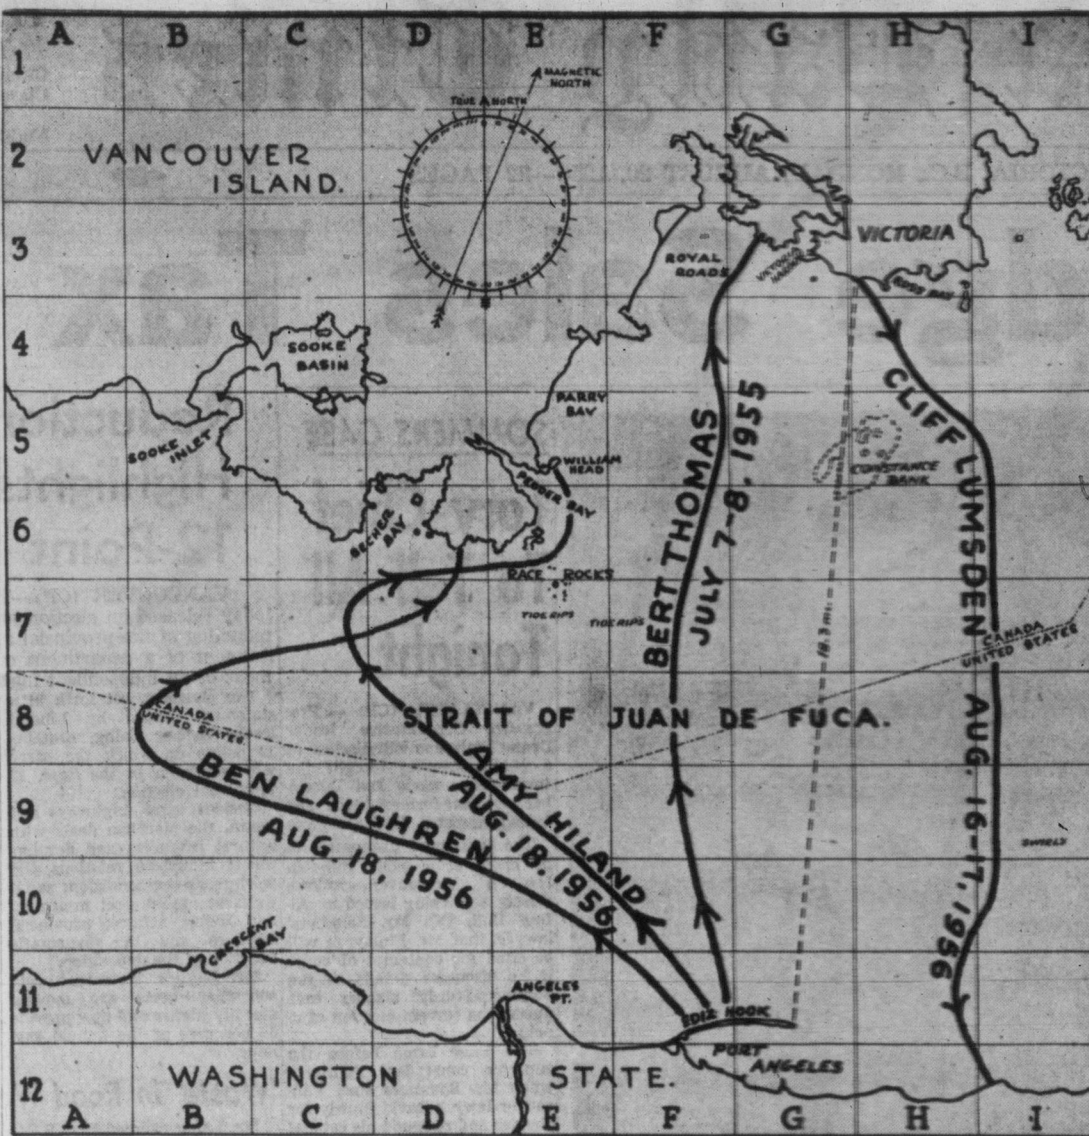

"That means there are three leftist parties—Labor Progressive, CCF and the Liberals. People can pay their money and take their choice. But I would remind them that Social Credit is the great middle of the road party offering fair treatment to all economic and religious groups."

WHICH ROUTE IS LEGAL?

Association Needed To Supervise Swims?

Shown on The Times swim chart are approximate routes of the four swimmers who have so far crossed Juan de Fuca Strait between Vancouver Island and the Washington Coast.

This is a distance of approximately 18.3 land miles. On April 14, 1955, The Times posted the first open prize for a victory over the Strait, an award of $1,000 which was won three months later by Bert Thomas.

The geographical boundaries laid down for this award were that landing or takeoff should be from the corporate limits of Esquimalt, Victoria or Oak Bay on the northern side, and six miles either side of Ediz Hook on the southern side.

The reason for these limits was that at its narrowest point, from the Church Point-Race

Rocks area across to the Angeles Point-Crescent Bay sector, the Strait is only 10 miles wide. While this is a formidable task for any swimmer, with its cold water and fast running tides, it does not by any means represent the challenge of the full route between Victoria and Port Angeles, either in distance or in swirls and eddies and general tidal problems.

It has now been suggested that if Strait swimming continues an official organization like the English Channel Swimming Association be set up and a standard set of boundaries and rules drafted.

In the Channel a swim is not recognized unless an official observer of the association accompanies the swimmer and certifies that all rules have been observed.

Due to the nature of the land bordering the Strait it might be then possible to establish a short course, for training purposes, and a long course for the main marathon.

The elapsed times for the four swims in the chart were: Bert Thomas, 11 hrs. 17 mins.; Cliff Lumsden, 11 hrs. 35 mins.; Ben Laughren, 10 hrs. 13 mins.; Amy Hiland, 10 hrs. 52 min.

Postman May Arrive At New Time

Victoria post office today began a re-arranged letter carrier route system to compensate for increased load on existing routes.

Most of the city is unaffected by the change, but for many citizens it means a new arrival time for their postman.

A few days is expected to elapse before carriers become accustomed to their routes, but general improvement in service and a more constant delivery time should be noticeable shortly, the post office said.

City growth has resulted in some routes formerly with 300 calls building up to 500 calls and in order to relieve this pressure and to provide the expanding business area with better service, three extra letter carriers have been employed and 45 routes re-arranged.

A total of 48 letter carriers are now employed.

NO GOOSE PIMPLES

Strait Swimmer Ben Stays Warm

Iron Man Ben Laughren, who swam from Port Angeles to Church Point Saturday, now has spent the phenomenal total of 73 hours and 59 minutes in the numbing water of the Strait of Juan de Fuca but the cheerful swimmer still has yet to sprout his first goose-pimple in deference to the Strait's famous cold temperature.

Ten times Ben has challenged the Strait and in that time he has covered close to 113 miles of Strait water. His huge barrel chest and massive wrestler's arms have battled ferociously with the Strait and Lady Luck.

Ben's career has been a varied one. He has built his body and strength through weight-lifting and wrestling. He left the wrestling game in disgust after his first professional fight.

He has been a sailor and he is an accomplished chef. He left a good job as chef in a city restaurant to devote all his time to training for a Strait conquest and he has felt the pinch. Ben and his wife have three children—all of them sturdy, healthy boys.

Ben has always been a swimmer, he learned it as a boy. But it wasn't until last January that he began to think seriously of a career in swimming.

He did not spare himself in his tests to see if he was physically suited for strait swimming. He began taking long practice swims in mid-January, when there was ice on the beach and snow in the air.

Ben didn't shiver then and he hasn't yet.

Two wires that Ben received following Saturday's swim probably disclosed the feeling that Victorians have for the big 270-pounder.

From Hamilton, Ont., Mayor Percy Scurrey wired, "Just received word of your successful swim. We all admire your persistence and hearty congratulations. It took a lot of courage and we are very pleased that you made the grade."

POOL PUSHING WASN'T FUNNY

Diana Dors' Husband Clobbers Playful Photog

From AP and UP
BEVERLY HILLS, Calif.—Actress Diana Dors and her husband, Dennis Hamilton, were nursing injuries today along with a photographer they say pushed them into their swimming pool during a gay housewarming party.

The British couple went into the water at the shallow end of the pool Sunday night along with two male guests. All were fully clothed.

The other two in the dunked quartet were Miss Dors' agent, Louis Schurr, and her dress designer, Howard Shoup.

The photographer, Stuart Sawyer, 32, of the United Press, was slugged in a fight that followed. Hamilton admitted striking Sawyer, who later flatly denied pushing anyone.

Witnesses at the lavish party and Miss Dors herself claimed that Sawyer, or someone, pushed the quartet into the water, perhaps as a gag which Diana said "wasn't funny at all, if it was intended to be."

The witnesses said Hamilton acted "like a tiger" as he knocked Sawyer to the ground and sat on him, beating his bloody face while Miss Dors screamed "unprintable words" and kicked at the photographer's head.

Miss Dors complained of a sore back and was put to bed. Sawyer suffered a possible broken nose, facial lacerations and bruises on the face, head and ribs, a physician reported.

Sawyer denied pushing the quartet into the water, adding: "I don't remember anything until I woke up in a car."

A number of film notables were among the large group of persons invited to the lavish party.

Dancing Vocalist Wins Top Prize At Lake Showboat

Acrobatic dancer and vocalist from Prince Rupert, Muriel Bertrand, won first prize in the second Beaver lake showboat competition Friday night.

Second prize was won by Don Echardt, 14-year-old trumpet player, Glidden road, and third prize went to Grant Allen, 11, 2029 Newton, who sang and accompanied himself on the piano.

Close to 1,500 spectators, more than five times last week's figure, turned out to applaud the show. Stan Cross' band played during intermission and Andy Anderson was accompanist. Keith McKenzie, was master of ceremonies.

Other contestants were Robert Fyvie, 430 Springfield, accordionist; Judy Smith, 935 Easter, accordionist; Sylvia Derowin, 660 Belton, acrobatic dancer, and Rhonda Williams, 3306 Dieppe, singer.

FAMED POODLE DOG CAFE TO BE PUT UP FOR SALE

The Poodle Dog Cafe, one of Victoria's famous restaurants which has become widely known throughout Canada and the United States, will be sold.

An agreement to put the restaurant up for sale was reached in Supreme Court Friday between Margaret E. Johnston and Henry R. Barnett, both of Victoria, co-owners of the well-known Government Street restaurant.

The agreement was reached during the hearing of the petition of Mrs. Johnston, who asked for a court order for the appointment of a liquidator to wind up the business of the cafe.

The petitioner claimed there was complete disagreement between herself and Mr. Barnett as to the management of the restaurant. For this reason she wanted the business wound up.

Mr. Barnett opposed the petition. The hearing came to an abrupt end when the two directors consented to offer the restaurant for sale.

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

Women of the world, unite!
Your hard-won freedom is in danger.
The equality for which you battled over the years is threatened.

In the state of Oregon, U.S.A., lady wrestlers have been outlawed.

Shades of Sylvia Pankhurst! This incredible news is enough to send every red-blooded American girl rushing to the ramparts and polishing up the guillotines.

And do not accuse me of making this up. The news is true—lamentably, regrettably true.

As might be expected, it is the jealous male who has brought about this abrupt cessation of what has come to be accepted as a normal female vocation.

Lady wrestlers, treated with respect and their rightful due of admiration in other parts, are banned in Oregon.

Last week, the state supreme court upheld a law forbidding wrestling matches between women. Justice Walter L. Tooez (a man, naturally) delivered the judgment thusly:

"It seems to us the statute intended that there should be at least one island on the sea of life reserved for men that would be impregnable to the assault of women . . . in the field of sports she has taken up baseball, basketball, golf, etc., in all of which she has become more or less proficient and in some has excelled."

"In the business and industrial fields . . . she has matched her wit and prowess with those of mere man and we are frank to concede, in many instances has outdone him. In those circumstances, it is any wonder that the legislative assembly took advantage of the police power of the state in its decision to halt this ever-increasing feminine encroachment upon what for ages had been considered strictly manly arts and privileges."

Now, isn't that just like a man?
Because women can do something better than men, men up and pass a law against it.

It is rank discrimination, and women should get together and do something about it.

Retaliation is called for.
As a starter, how about the women of the world getting together and taking away from man one of his most cherished privileges?

Namely, washing the supper dishes.

Investigation is continuing into a fire discovered at 4.30 a.m. Friday in the bottling firm office, which caused between $2,000 and $3,000 damage to furniture.

A company official said $153, mostly in small bills, was stolen from a cash drawer.

THEY WERE BOTH LUCKY

Seagoing Kitten Taken From Log

By BILL RAYNER
This could be called a fishy story, or even a catty one . . .

Ed Peterson of 1147 Newport discovered while fishing Sunday off Victoria a strait challenger perched on a four-foot log about a mile out from Albert Head.

It was a little white kitten, approximately three weeks old.

The wee thing was obviously out to swim, or float, the Strait of Juan de Fuca, realizing even at its tender age that a channel-conquering cat would even be more of a celebrity than Cliff or Marilyn or Gus.

Not to mention the eventual acquisition of a sponsor with unlimited access to fresh milk.

Mr. Peterson was out fishing in his 21-foot cruiser when he spied the kitten perched resolutely on the log, and manoeuvred to within 25 feet to record the historic bid on film with his camera.

At that moment the cat decided to give up its attempt however, and swam the 25 feet from the log over to the boat.

Mr. Peterson hauled in the ferrying feline, fed it and wrapped it in a blanket.

Up to this time, Mr. Peterson had been fishing for salmon without any luck at all. But right after the kitten came aboard, he caught four cod in a row.

So now the kitten, named "Lucky" in honor of the four cod, is resting comfortably at Mr. Peterson's home.

Mr. Peterson hasn't yet decided yet whether to keep Lucky, give it away or try to find the previous owner, but you can be sure that Lucky won't be making another strait attempt for a while.

Not while that mess of cod is there to be eaten.

Not to mention the eventual acquisition of a sponsor with unlimited access to fresh milk.

Mr. Peterson hauled in the ferrying feline, fed it and wrapped it in a blanket.

Up to this time, Mr. Peterson had been fishing for salmon without any luck at all. But right after the kitten came aboard, he caught four cod in a row.

So now the kitten, named "Lucky" in honor of the four cod, is resting comfortably at Mr. Peterson's home.

Mr. Peterson hasn't yet decided yet whether to keep Lucky, give it away or try to find the previous owner, but you can be sure that Lucky won't be making another strait attempt for a while.

Not while that mess of cod is there to be eaten.

Not to mention the eventual acquisition of a sponsor with unlimited access to fresh milk.

Mr. Peterson was out fishing in his 21-foot cruiser when he spied the kitten perched resolutely on the log, and manoeuvred to within 25 feet to record the historic bid on film with his camera.

At that moment the cat decided to give up its attempt however, and swam the 25 feet from the log over to the boat.

Mr. Peterson hauled in the ferrying feline, fed it and wrapped it in a blanket.

Second Suspect In Park Outrage Being Trained

Man Now Held Pleads Guilty

Police investigation into vandalism at Beacon Hill Park last week has led to a second suspect, it was disclosed in city court today.

Prosecutor Alan Bigelow said the suspect has not yet been charged, "but we know where he is."

It is believed he is in Eastern Canada and will be returned to face charges.

The prosecutor made the disclosure in asking Magistrate A. J. Thomas for a remand to Aug. 24 of James Patrick Kennedy, 24-year-old sailor from HMCS Naden.

Kennedy pleaded guilty to taking part in smashing 38 windows at the Lookout and pulling up a drinking fountain near the bowling green early Wednesday.

It was believed six youths who subsequently entered an apartment block near the park where they damaged flower stands were responsible for the destruction.

Two Island Boats Win Top Prizes At Hatzic Lake

Two Island boats won events on Sunday in the annual Vancouver Powerboat Association regatta at Hatzic Lake, near Mission City.

Percy Stacey's Class B place boat ranabout took first place in its event, while J. Van Bergen won the 136 Class Hydros.

Only other Island entry to gain points was Alex Stevenson of Nanaimo, who placed third in the Class B outboard runabout competition.

Swimmers may depart from this course, but in order to qualify for prize money landing must be within 10 miles east or west of Ediz Hook.

Starting time is still a secret, but it will be some time in the early morning.

Referee will be H. B. E. worthy, president of Island Tug and Barge Ltd.

Latest to add his name to the list of entries is a Calgary man, 24-year-old Robert Masslow, who has had no previous marathon experience.

Already entered were Ben Laughren, Janice White and Andy Burian, all well known locally, and newcomers William Gohl and Johnny de Courciere.

Rudy Schlack of Winnipeg said today swimmers were "dead" here now and "I'll join Cliff for the CNE swim."

The latter two need assistance in the way of boats and navigators for training purposes, the Chamber said.

Persons able to help may call the Jaycee office at 3-4521.

Esquimalt Tonight To Hit Amalgamation

Council to Meet in Camera; Most Say Time Not Ripe for Area Merger

Esquimalt council is expected to take a negative stand on the amalgamation report against vigorous opposition of one councillor, at a "closed-door" meeting in Municipal Hall tonight.

The "in-committee" meeting was called by Reeve A. C. Wurtelle, one of Esquimalt's delegates to a special intermunicipal committee, which will study the report submitted in June to senior and junior chambers of commerce by Dr. George Hougham, assistant director of the Citizens' Research Institute of Canada, Toronto.

The amalgamation report proposes union of city, Oak Bay, Esquimalt, View Royal and southern Saanich under a single administration. Dr. Hougham took a leading role in planning for Metropolitan Toronto.

Reeve Wurtelle declined to comment on the issue prior to tonight's meeting.

"We will uphold the opinion of the council," he said.

8 p.m.—Oak Bay Social Credit Association nominates a candidate at St. Mary's Hall.

At a CCF dance Saturday night, Councillor Les Passmore of Saanich announced:

"If you are not on the voters' list you can register at the back of the hall. I don't care how you vote so long as you are on the voters' list. Now is your chance to get on it."

A number of young people left the dance floor to fill out registration cards, assisted by CCF Saanich candidate Frank Snowsall.

Mr. Snowsall then delivered the completed cards to the registrar.

At a CCF meeting in the Douglas Street CCF Hall over the weekend, Saanich candidate Frank Snowsall replied to a statement by Rev. Charles Parker, Social Credit candidate for Cowichan-Newcastle, that the CCF has "thrown away its Bible" when it rejected the Regina manifesto.

"I want to remind Mr. Parker that in 1952 the Canadian Council of Churches dedicated a revised issue of the Bible," Mr. Snowsall said.

"Mr. Parker would not suggest that the churches rejected the Bible in 1952."

Anyone who did not vote in the last provincial election should register before Tuesday midnight at the head registration office at 910 Gordon Street, Victoria, or at their local registration office.

Saanich Liberals will choose their candidate at a meeting at Liberal headquarters, Government Street, at 8 p.m. Friday. Nominations may be made from the floor.

More Religious Teaching Asked

Archbishop Puts Request To Provincial Government

Archbishop of British Columbia Harold E. Sexton Sunday called on Premier W. A. C. Bennett to make available "adequate" religious instruction in B.C.'s schools.

In his sermon at Christ Church Cathedral he said "B.C. lags behind every other Canadian province in this respect."

His Grace said there is "a very general recognition" of the need for religious instruction in the province's schools, and provincial government move in this direction would be "a priceless service to the children of Christian parents."

The present "anti-religious attitude" of many teen-agers, he said, is not surprising as many have no moral or spiritual training at home and have attended schools where religious instruction has no part of the regular curriculum.

"A purely secular system of education will not suffice for our needs of today," he said.

Rights of atheists and rationalists could be protected by a conscience clause, as in other places, he said.

Previous B.C. provincial governments have, for the most part, ignored religious education in schools as "they have seemingly regarded it as politically inexpedient to accede to the repeated representations of the respective Christian bodies made to them over the past 40 years."

The archbishop called on Premier Bennett to examine provisions for religious education in schools of other provinces "in order to give us the same privileges enjoyed by most Canadians."

NEED DECLARED
Close to 12 years ago a conference of religious leaders from all Christian bodies in B.C. was held in Vancouver, including Roman Catholic educators, and at that time "unanimity" was reached on need for religious teaching in B.C.'s schools.

A presentation was made to the then provincial government, said His Grace, but apart from allowing Bible readings in certain school levels, made without comment, nothing further happened.

"We want religion in the regular school curriculum. It works in Ontario and there's no reason it shouldn't work here."

Apart from Bible reading, the only religious body seeking the allegiance of teen-agers in the schools is the Inter-School Christian Fellowship, which holds talks by religious leaders during high school lunch periods.

The ISCF, which is supported by a number of Protestant denominations, usually schedules the talks in churches located near the high schools. Attendance is voluntary and students gather to lunch together while listening to the speaker, a debate or an exposition between their own members.

City Benefits In Grants on Population Rise

Preliminary 1956 census figures released in Ottawa today indicated Victoria will benefit by an added $10,426 in provincial government municipal aid grants next year.

First figures prepared by the bureau of statistics show a distinct rise in Canada's urban population, and the Victoria city population is shown as 52,935, an increase of 1,604 over the 51,331 tabulation for 1951.

The bureau issued figures for population totals at June 1 this year in some 500 cities, towns and incorporated villages.

Today's figures are subject to revision, and will be released with other final figures at a later date, probably in the fall.

The city this year received $454,651.50 under the province's Municipalities Aid Act, which replaced former grants to local areas from sales tax and motor vehicle licence receipts.

If the federal census figure goes unchanged this year, the city will receive $465,077.50 next year.

All grants of this nature are based on the 1951 federal census figures. This year represents the first year of federal government interim censuses, or surveys taken five years apart instead of the former 10 years.

Formula for the provincial grant is $16 per capita up to 3,500 population; $12 for each person between 3,500 and 8,000; $8 for each person between 8,000 and 50,000; and $6.50 for each person over 50,000.

Eventual outcome of the census is expected to show Canada's population has risen in the five-year interval from 15,000,000 to about 16,000,000.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Touch your left toe with your left hand, then the right toe with the right hand. Continue for ten times. This will slim your waist.

A PARODY OF SORTS

Some days when in the glass I stare
I see a waist that isn't there.
I see it there again today.
Ye gods, I wish it'd come to stay.

It wasn't your imagination! It is there all right. It is just hidden by layers of fat and lax muscles. And, it will not come to stay unless you do something about it.

Nothing gives the figure such a boost toward beauty as a slim waist. If your waist is trim you can carry a few extra inches in your hip measurement and still look lithe. If your waist is slim your bust will appear larger. There is something about thickening in the middle which is definitely aging in appearance.

Naturally, if you are overweight you will have to count your calories, but even when you do fatty deposits have a tendency to cling to this portion of the figure from middle age on, unless you exercise.

The following exercise is splendid for slimming the waistline. Stand tall with your feet separated. Bend your right elbow and place the palm of your right hand on the top of your head. Keep it there while you bend to the left, trying to touch your left toe with the fingers of your left hand. Raise your trunk. Continue for ten times. Now place the palm of your left hand on the top of your head, bend to the right and try to touch the fingers of your right hand to your right toe. Raise trunk and continue.

Big warning. Keep your knees stiff or this exercise will have little value. If you cannot touch your toes with your fingers go as far down toward the floor as possible on the bend. After practice, which will stretch your leg muscles, you will be able to introduce your fingers to your toes.

If you would like to have my tested waist slimming exercises which will take a few inches from your waist measurements in a few weeks time, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 6 "Don't Go to Waist," to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Malicious Gossip Requires A Strong Counter-Attack

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

There are times when the only things that work must be used. In the case, described below, that is true, as I pointed out to the young girl who wrote:

(Q)—"We are a group of high school juniors and we have a problem we hope you can help us to solve. Last winter, a new girl moved into our neighborhood and is in our class at school. She is attractive-looking, dresses well, is quite a talented musician, and seemed like a nice girl. We felt sorry for her as she knew no one in the school so we started to ask her to do things with us. She was very nice to us to our faces but we soon discovered that she told the boys she met through us all kinds of bad things about us and tried to ruin our reputations. We have stopped asking her to do things with us and now she says even worse things about us. How can we stop her and make the boys believe that we don't do the things this girl tells them we do?"—D.P.

(A)—"Much as you may hate to do so, you should tell the boys you know just what this girl has done after your kindnesses to her. Point out to them that you have never done the things she told them you did and let them then decide what side they want to be on.

In addition, you would do well to invite this girl to a party with your group and then call her on the carpet to explain what she said about you and why she said it. Take her by surprise and don't let her have even a suspicion of why you have invited her.

If she has not said the things about you that the boys say, she has said, then it will be up to her to explain to the boys that she was blameless. If, on the other hand, she has spread malicious gossip, she will be greatly embarrassed and try to deny it.

As a group, you can make her realize that you will not tolerate such gossiping about you and that you will see to it that she does not get invited to the parties and get together you organize if she ever does such a thing again. If she wants to have friends and be in on what is going on, she will then realize that she will have to change her tactics.

Send your problems to Elizabeth Hurlock, in care of this newspaper.

SUDBURY UNDERTAKES JAPAN TOW

Island Tug and Barge Ltd. has secured a major towing assignment for the deep-sea towing and salvage vessel Ss. Sudbury, her first big job since the epic Makedonia salvage tow last fall.

Sudbury is taking a scrap-iron laden barge from B.C. to Japan, where the barge will be broken up for scrap.

Tug and tow will leave this week on the long tow, which will take an estimated 45 days over the great circle route.

Capt. Harley Blagborne, master of the Sudbury for the Makedonia tow, is still in command.

Britain's Top Roman Catholic Prelate Dies

LONDON (CP) — Bernard Cardinal Griffin, Archbishop of Westminster and Britain's highest Roman Catholic prelate, died early today after a heart attack. He was 57, and had been in poor health for the last five years.

The prelate, who had suffered four heart attacks since 1951, died while on vacation in Cornwall.

The prelate offered his resignation to Pope Pius after a heart attack last November. The Pontiff declined to accept it.

The son of a Birmingham city councillor, the cardinal was noted as a scholar, church administrator and authority on canon law. Educated at Cotton College in Warwickshire and in Rome, he was ordained in 1924.

He succeeded the late Arthur Cardinal Hinsley as Archbishop of Westminster and leader of Britain's 3,500,000 Roman Catholics in 1943. Three years later he was elevated to the rank of cardinal.

POPE EXPRESSES SORROW

The body of Cardinal Griffin will be brought to London Thursday or Friday for formal lying-in-state.

A solemn requiem mass is expected to be held in Westminster Cathedral Saturday or Monday. He will be buried in the crypt of the cathedral.

Pope Pius expressed his "profound sorrow" when news of the cardinal's death was brought to him at his summer residence at Castel Gandolfo, 15 miles southwest of Rome.

The death of Britain's cardinal, one of the youngest princes of the Roman Catholic Church, creates the ninth vacancy in the 70-seat College of Cardinals. It has spurred earlier speculation that the Pope may call another consistory to fill the vacant seats.

Cardinal Griffin assumed his high office at the age of 46—young for a cardinal—following the death of the 78-year-old Cardinal Hinsley.

'OLD POLITICAL TACTICS'

Time No Election Factor—Bennett

The opposition parties had lots of time to criticize government legislation reducing the election span from 59 to 38 days, Premier Bennett declared today.

"Instead of complaining now, they should have obstructed this legislation when it was passed in the House. They have had plenty of time to get used to the idea. Yet when I name a polling day exactly 38 days after announcing an election, they complain they have been taken by surprise."

The premier insisted that eligible voters have time to register though they could have done so much earlier.

"At every election in this province there has been the same outcry. It is just part of the old political tactics—to try and discredit the reigning government at all costs."

In cheerful mood, the premier joked merrily about opposition tactics in the current campaign and said he noted Liberal leader Arthur Laing had said the provincial Liberal party was now "left of centre."

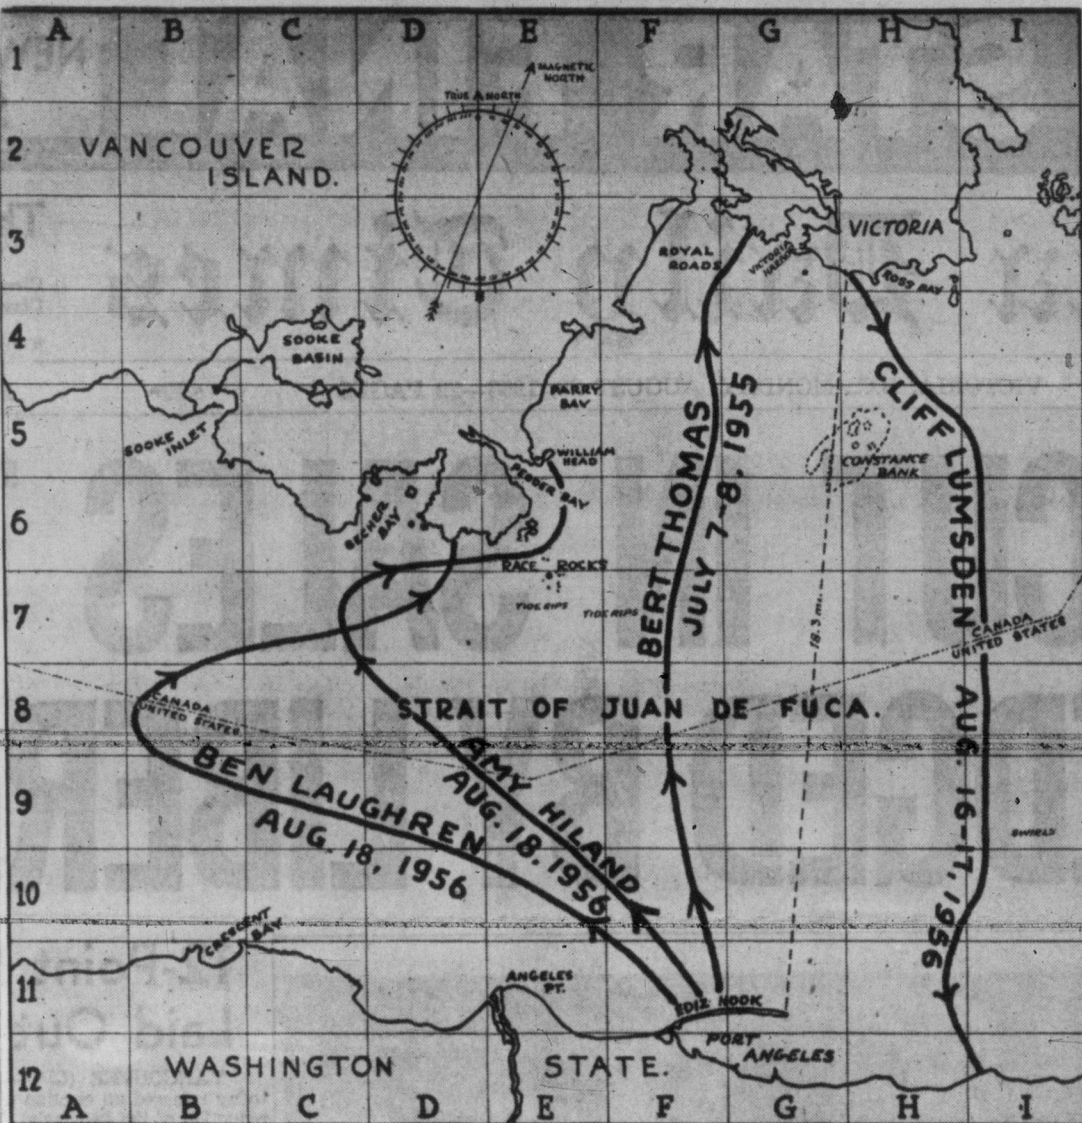

"That means there are three leftist parties—Labor Progressive, CCF and the Liberals. People can pay their money and take their choice. But I would remind them that Social Credit is the great middle of the road party offering fair treatment to all economic and religious groups."

WHICH ROUTE IS LEGAL?

Association Needed To Supervise Swims?

Shown on The Times swim chart are approximate routes of the four swimmers who have so far crossed Juan de Fuca Strait between Vancouver Island and the Washington Coast.

The original conception of the "perfect swim" is shown by the dotted route in the centre linking Horseshoe Bay with Ediz Hook, the line which Florence Chadwick attempted in 1954. This is a distance of approximately 18.3 land miles.

On April 14, 1955, The Times posted the first open prize for a victory over the Strait, an award of $1,000 which was won three months later by Bert Thomas.

The geographical boundaries laid down for this award were that landing or takeoff should be from the corporate limits of Esquimalt, Victoria or Oak Bay on the northern side, and six miles either side of Ediz Hook on the southern side.

The reason for these limits was that at its narrowest point, from the Church Point-Race

Rocks area across to the Angeles Point-Crescent Bay sector, the Strait is only 10 miles wide. While this is a formidable task for any swimmer, with its cold water and fast running tides, it does not by any means represent the challenge of the full route between Victoria and Port Angeles, either in distance or in swirls and eddies and general tidal problems.

It has now been suggested that if Strait swimming continues an official organization like the English Channel Swimming Association be set up and a standard set of boundaries and rules drafted.

In the Channel a swim is not recognized unless an official observer of the association accompanies the swimmer and certifies that all rules have been observed.

Due to the nature of the land bordering the Strait might be then possible to establish a short course, for training purposes, and a long course for the main marathon.

The elapsed times for the four swims in the chart were: Bert Thomas, 11 hrs. 17 mins.; Cliff Lumsden, 11 hrs. 35 mins.; Ben Laughren, 10 hrs. 13 mins.; Amy Hiland, 10 hrs. 52 min.

Postman May Arrive At New Time

Victoria post office today began a re-arranged letter carrier route system to compensate for increased load on existing routes.

Most of the city is unaffected by the change, but for many citizens it means a new arrival time for their postman.

A few days is expected to elapse before carriers become accustomed to their routes, but general improvement in service and a more constant delivery time should be noticeable shortly, the post office said.

City growth has resulted in some routes formerly with 300 calls building up to 500 calls and in order to relieve this pressure and to provide the expanding business area with better service, three extra letter carriers have been employed and 45 routes re-arranged.

A total of 48 letter carriers are now employed.

NO GOOSE PIMPLES

Strait Swimmer Ben Stays Warm

Iron Man Ben Laughren, who swam from Port Angeles to Church Point Saturday, now has spent the phenomenal total of 73 hours and 59 minutes in the numbing water of the Strait of Juan de Fuca but the cheerful swimmer still has yet to sprout his first goose-pimple in deference to the Strait's famous cold temperature.

Ten times Ben has challenged the Strait and in that time he has covered close to 113 miles of Strait water. His huge barrel chest and massive wrestler's arms have battled ferociously with the Strait and Lady Luck.

Ben's career has been a varied one. He has built his body and strength through weightlifting and wrestling. He left the wrestling game in disgust after his first professional fight.

He has been a sailor and he is an accomplished chef. He left a good job as chef in a city restaurant to devote all his time to training for a Strait conquest and he has felt the pinch. Ben and his wife have three children—all of them sturdy, healthy boys.

Ben, like all good swimmers, learned it as a boy. But it wasn't until last January that he began to think seriously of a career in swimming.

He did not spare himself in his tests to see if he was physically suited for strait swimming. He began taking long practice swims in mid-January, when there was ice on the beach and snow in the air.

Ben didn't shiver then and he hasn't yet.

Two wires that Ben received following Saturday's swim probably disclosed the feeling that Victorians have for the big 270-pounder.

From Hamilton, Ont., Mayor Percy Scourrah wired, "Just received word of your successful swim. We all admire your persistence and heartily congratulate. It took a lot of courage and we are very pleased that you made the grade."
